

Hanoi to free 3 U.S. fliers to antiwar group

TOKYO, Saturday (UPI) — North Vietnam said today it will release three American pilots being held as prisoners of war.

It said they will be turned over to "a U.S. social organization animated with good will and a desire to bring about an early end to the U.S. war in Vietnam," but did not elaborate.

The names of the pilots broadcast by the Vietnam News Agency monitored in Tokyo were:

—Markham Ligon Gartley, Lt. (j.g.) USN, service number 703,644, born May 16, 1941, in Kentucky, captured Aug. 17, 1968, in Nghe An.

—Norris Alphonzo Charles, Lt. (j.g.) USN, service number 755,256, born Aug. 4, 1945, in Florida, captured Dec. 30, 1971, in Ha Tinh.

—Edward Knight Elias, Major, USAF, service number 429,649,169 F1R, born Jan. 16, 1938, in Arkansas, captured April 20, 1972, Quang Binh.

The announcement was made in a North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry statement.

The statement said:

"Pursuant to the humane and lenient policy of the government of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, the general political department of the Vietnam People's Army has decided to release, on the occasion of the national day, Sept. 2, 1972, the three American pilots captured in North Vietnam.

North Vietnam is celebrating the anniversary of its declaration of independence.

The statement, however, did not say when the pilots are expected to arrive in the United States or where they would be released.

The broadcast said it was the second such release of U.S. prisoners of war by the North Vietnamese. It said "a number of U.S. pilots captured in North Vietnam" were released in 1968.

In Greenville, Me., the father of Markham Gartley shouted, "That's my boy!" when told by telephone his son's name was on the list.

Gerald A. Gartley said he had not heard from his son since he received a letter written in June and delivered recently by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, who visited Hanoi.

"It's too good to be true, just too good to be true," Gartley said.

The North Vietnamese announcement followed a report by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that he had received information of a pending release of prisoners.

Kennedy's office in Washington said information received through informal channels indicated the release would take place on a forthcoming Vietnamese holiday. Today is the anniversary of the founding of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam by Ho Chi Minh.

A State Department official said the U.S. government had no confirmation or independent information of any kind concerning the report, which was given it by Kennedy's office Friday afternoon.

"It goes without saying that we hope it is true," the official said.

There have been three previous releases of U.S. prisoners by North Vietnam — two groups of three men each during 1968 and a group of three men in August 1969.

In each case the men were released in custody of some private U.S. antiwar group and flown out of Southeast Asia through Vietnam, Laos.

There were 866 Americans listed as captured or missing in North Vietnam as of early August, with 413 of them known to have been captured. This list has lengthened somewhat in the past month due to aircraft losses in bombing raids over the North.

Kennedy, who was vacationing in Hyannis Port, Mass., Friday and did not directly handle release of the information to the press, has been in touch with North Vietnamese officials for some years in his official capacity as chairman of the Senate subcommittee on refugees.

The aide said the channel through which the word came included informal connections in Paris, where North Vietnam maintains a delegation to the peace talks. There also are representatives of several U.S. peace groups there who have been instrumental in the past in relaying new lists of PW names from Hanoi.

Kennedy himself has passed on to the government several lists of PW names made available to him through his Paris contacts. He also has been a conduit for mail from PWs to their families.

Lifeguard John Stockwell, right, grasps David Allen Cox, 17, as he reaches shore at Marineland after Los Alamitos youth's world record 8-hour, 50-minute freestyle swim across Catalina Channel Friday.

Record swim seems to run in the family

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

When David Allen Cox got home Friday morning, he'd just spent eight hours churning freestyle through the cold, choppy sea en route to a Catalina-to-mainland swimming record.

He entered the water at 1 a.m. off Catalina's west end, swam all night with a couple of breaks, treading water, to take on liquid nourishment, and landed on the rocks below Marineland so exhausted and chilled he couldn't talk.

In that condition, he returned to his Los Alamitos home. And what did the 17-year-old AAU swimmer do then?

"He stayed up all day. He came home pretty excited," said his mother.

Estelle, Friday night. He finally went to bed about 5 p.m., she said.

"When he got home," she said, "he sat around and watched TV for a while. Then he made a few phone calls to friends. Then his girlfriend was here and he took her home. Finally he said, I've just got to have some sleep."

With the new record holder for the channel swim fast asleep, Mrs. Cox explained that behind her son's excitement was not just achievement of the record, but the climax of months of workouts and preparations.

A member of Long Beach's Phillips 66 Swim Team and, previously, the swim team at Los Alamitos High School, competitive swimming was not

Bomb rips crowded nightclub, 42 perish

MONTREAL (UPI)—A bomb explosion followed by a flash fire in a Montreal nightclub packed with about 350 weekend patrons killed at least 42 persons and injured up to 40 others Friday night.

"This is a major catastrophe," a Montreal police official said at the Blue Bird cafe. Shortly after the explosion rocked the club, police issued a general alarm call for all available police, ambulances and fire fighting equipment.

Customers told a Montreal radio station that the rear door of the nightclub had been bolted shut, preventing escape from the inferno.

Shortly after midnight the fire was still out of control on the second floor of the three-story building.

Police said three suspects had been picked up about 40 minutes after the blast. "All we can say at the moment is that some kind of explosive device

L.B. jobless rate drops

Unemployment in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area fell to 5.5 per cent of the labor force in August, its lowest level in 30 months. The state jobless rate dropped from 5.1 to 5.8 per cent, the lowest rate for the month since 1969.

Director Sigurd I. Hansen of the Department of Human Resources Development said the number of persons employed in California rose 50,000 last month to total an all-time high of 8.31 million.

Hansen said along with a "steadily improving economy," major factors in the rise of persons holding jobs were seasonal employment increases in canneries and auto production facilities and a 1,900 job increase in the aerospace industry.

Unemployment nationally edged up from a 20-month low of 5.5 per cent in July to 5.6 per cent last month.

Summit talks end with trade pact

By BOB HOUSER
I-P-T Political Editor

HONOLULU — More than a billion dollars in new Japanese purchases of United States goods and services was announced Friday by President Nixon and Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka. In a joint communique the two leaders closed their two days of summit talks characterized hopefully by both as "the beginning of a new chapter in the course of developing ever closer bonds between the two countries."

Nixon and Tanaka also committed their governments to work rapidly toward fundamental reform of the international monetary system, a reform they agreed is essential.

While the specific balance of trade adjustment to help America's current annual deficit of 3.8 billion dollars in economic dealings with Japan, is short-term and may reach only about 500 million dollars in the Japanese fiscal year ending March 31, 1973, the ground is broken for long-term accommodation.

The communique dealt in general and non-specific terms on other areas of interest, with repeated emphasis on such terms as "warmth and mutual trust, close consultations, close cooperation and closer bonds."

—It reaffirmed the intention of the two governments to maintain their security treaty and to continue to cooperate through close consultations to insure its effective implementation.

—It shared the hope for an early peace in Indochina and noted President Nixon's Peking and Moscow trips "were a significant step forward."

—The leaders agreed the U.S.-Soviet agreements on strategic arms are "an important step forward in limiting strategic arms and contributing to world peace." They agreed to consult on the need for further steps to control strategic arms.

—They expressed conviction that their talks would contribute to closer cooperation between the two countries to deal with economic issues of a bilateral and global nature.

—They noted the need in forthcoming trade negotiations to lay the basis for further trade expansion through reduction of tariff and non-tariff barriers as well as formulations of a "multilateral non-discriminatory safeguard mechanism."

Another 320 million dollars outlay by Japan to the U.S. is planned for the purchase of civil aircraft, including wide-bodied craft, the orders to be placed in Japan's fiscal 1972 and 1973. Subject to budget appropriations, Japan also plans to buy 20 million dollars worth of helicopters and aviation-related facilities.

Japanese power companies will purchase 320 million dollars worth of uranium.

S. Viet forces push into Red stronghold

Unending war seen more likely than peace in Vietnam. Page A-4.

The U.S. Command ordered tactical warplanes armed with "smart" bombs into the battle for Quang Tri Thursday in an attempt to stall expected North Vietnamese Independence Day attacks this weekend, military sources said.

In addition, American B52 bombers flew 11 missions around the city overnight and today to block supplies and fresh troops from being brought in from the west.

B52s also struck twice in the North Vietnamese pander around Dong Hoi and made nine missions in addition to the Quang Tri flights in South Vietnam.

Three of the bomber strikes were in the Que Son Valley below Da Nang, 370 miles northeast of Saigon, the command said.

The South Vietnamese command reported fighting around embattled Que Son district town Friday afternoon. The fighting at Quang Tri may be halted by a typhoon which is bearing down on the area with winds up to 80 mph.

The storm was expected to blunt Independence Day attacks around the city this weekend.

Intelligence officers predicted intensified Communist attacks to mark the 27th anniversary of North Vietnam's Declaration of Independence today.

In the fight for control of Que Son, government troops pushed out a small Viet Cong force which had occupied the military headquarters in the town for three days, but the Communists took control of portions of the residential section.

North Vietnamese in Paris said 71 American aircraft, including an eight-engine B52 bomber, were shot down in August, more than in any of the four previous months.

Mighty Boris has succumbed

There is no joy in the Moscow Chess Club

By STEPHEN BROENING

MOSCOW — Bad news spread on tiptoes Friday night across the worn oak floors of the Moscow Chess Club. It was as if someone's close relative had died.

An American reporter told the club caretaker first. The caretaker stepped lightly up to a member and whispered it to him. They both tiptoed down the dusty hall to an office where a secretary was typing a letter for a club official.

The official made a phone call, confronted with the crushing reality that for the first time in a quarter of a century someone other than a Soviet citizen was the world chess champion — the champion of what the Russians had come to assume was their world.

The official regressed to form by saying: "Unfortunately, I am not authorized to make any comment about Spassky's decision."

Boris Spassky's decision was to resign the game adjourned today before, losing him the game and the match for the world championship to Bobby Fischer, the American challenger.

In one dimly lit room, a man sat before a chess board analyzing the adjourned position Fischer and Spassky had left on Thursday.

Someone told him it was all over. He returned from some deep reverie, banged the white queen on the table and said quietly,

"There is no point in continuing."

He picked up a small package, carelessly wrapped in brown paper, and left the club without another word.

Because the club has been a sort of general headquarters for Soviet chess mastery — all their champions have trained there — it is the place where chess-mad Russians gathered to hear analysis of the world championship games.

On a wrought-iron balcony on the second floor, a large magnetic chess board was put up and the moves were made so that people standing under the cottonwoods across the boulevard could follow the progress of the games.

INTERNATIONAL
Canada parliament dissolved

Combined News Services
OTTAWA — The government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau dissolved the parliament and resigned from office Friday to prepare the way for national elections next month. Trudeau told a news conference that he had ordered a Canadian general election for Oct. 30. The Liberal Party of the 53-year-old prime minister swept into office on June 25, 1968, on the crest of a wave of "Trudeaumania" which capitalized on his youthful appearance and pledge of a "just society."

Trudeau said he would stand on the achievements of his party and hesitated to predict the outcome of the elections. The prime minister was elected to a five-year term and could have served without new elections until next July, but it has become traditional in the Canadian government, which is modeled after the British system, to call elections every four years.

B.C. dock strike ended
OTTAWA — The government's emergency legislation to end the British Columbia dock strike became a law Friday following debate in the House of Commons and Senate. Longshoremen were expected to begin working their "normal hours" at once. The Vancouver port had been closed since Aug. 7, and all B.C. ports were shut down Aug. 23.

NATIONAL
Draft could end this year

WASHINGTON — Selective Service System officials Friday set draft lottery No. 95 as the highest to be called this year. They said this ceiling "assures almost three-fourths of the men who faced induction during 1972 that they will not be called this year." Adding fresh indications the draft may actually end with the December call-up, rather than continue through June, the Selective Service announcement said about 15,900 men with lottery numbers from 76 to 95 will be called during October, November and December.

Any men holding numbers up to 95 who become available for induction after mid-November, when the December notices will be mailed out, would remain liable for the first three months of 1973 only "should there be cause during that period," the announcement said. Monday, President Nixon and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said "every effort will be made to minimize draft calls, if not avoid them entirely, between January and July 1973." The draft expires June 30, the deadline set by Nixon for achieving an all-volunteer force. Already the President has ruled out sending draftees to Vietnam, saying only volunteers are needed to maintain the dwindling U.S. ground forces there.

more than 50 injured in the fighting which raged in downtown Santiago for more than eight hours. Isolated incidents flared through the night.

Echeverria pleads for unity
MEXICO CITY — President Luis Echeverria claimed Friday he had all but wiped out Mexican guerrilla movements and had stabilized the national economy in the first 21 months of his administration. In his second annual State of the Union message, Echeverria made a plea for Latin American unity, saying his government had "reiterated under all circumstances our support for the process of Latin American integration."

British seek paid killer
BELFAST — British security sources said Friday they believe they know the identity of a professional Swedish killer hired by the Irish Republican Army to murder British soldiers for a price. "We know he's handsomely paid," one source said. At the same time, police identified the victims of Northern Ireland's latest two murders Thursday as Roman Catholics. They were the 53rd and 54th victims of what police believe are psychopathic "thrill killings."

Arab federation anniversary
CAIRO — President Anwar Sadat marked the first anniversary Friday of the federation of Egypt, Libya and Syria with a plea for greater Arab unity and prayers for strength to achieve victory. In a three-nation broadcast, Sadat repeated his goal of liberation of Arab lands whatever the price. He also called for fulfillment of the rights of Arab Palestinians now living under Israeli occupation.

Jet scare at Kennedy airport
NEW YORK — A TWA jet carrying 336 passengers and a crew of 18 was evacuated at Kennedy Airport Friday night when the crew noticed smoke in a right-side landing gear, an airlines spokesman said. At least eight persons were taken to a Jamaica hospital with injuries believed suffered as they slid down emergency chutes. A spokesman for Trans World Airlines said two flat tires were found, but there was no indication of deliberate damage to the Boeing 747, which was taking off for Paris, Rome and Tel Aviv.

Ford output shatters record
DETROIT — Ford Motor Co. shattered a 43-year-old record for car production last month and the Big Four automobile manufacturers together produced a total of 545,316 cars, it was reported Friday. The overall August output marked a slight increase over total production of General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and American Motors in the same month last year when 529,673 units were made, but the year's total still was below that for 1971.

People in the News
Irving 'doing all right'
his first week in prison

Combined News Services
Her husband is "doing all right" his first week in prison, Edith Irving reported after arriving in New York Friday on her way to Switzerland, where she is charged with larceny and forgery for her part in the Howard Hughes autobiography hoax. "He telephoned me yesterday," (Thursday) the 36-year-old Mrs. Irving said of her husband Clifford. "Everything I know from my own experience in prison indicates that the first week is terrible, but he's doing all right." She was released from Nassau County Jail on Long Island Aug. 18 after serving two months on charges stemming from the McGraw-Hill Inc. swindle. Her husband entered Allenwood Prison Farm in Pennsylvania 10 days later for a 2½-year term. Mrs. Irving is to leave for Zurich Sunday with the couple's two sons, Nedski, 4, and Baruahy, 2.

Swiss authorities disclosed Friday in Zurich that most of the $650,000 frozen in Swiss banks in the probe of the Howard Hughes autobiography hoax have been released to McGraw-Hill, the New York publisher. Zurich Dist. Atty. Peter Veleff made the disclosure in announcing that Mrs. Irving will be arrested upon her arrival Monday from New York, where she served a two-month sentence imposed after she pleaded guilty to complicity in the hoax. A Swiss warrant for her arrest charges her with fraud and forgery in cashing, as "Helga R. Hughes," checks given by McGraw-Hill to her husband and intended for the billionaire recluse.

Assassin

Arthur Bremer's attorney filed an appeal Friday of Bremer's conviction in the shooting of Alabama Gov. George Wallace. Bremer's attorney Friday filed an initial appeal petition in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court in Upper Marlboro where the 21-year-old Milwaukee man was found guilty of assault with intent to murder Wallace. The attorney also asked the state of Maryland to pay the costs of the appeal process. Bremer was sentenced to 63 years for firing the shots that partially paralyzed Wallace and wounded three other persons at a political rally in Laurel, Md., May 15.

Lee Marvin

The ruling of a Los Angeles Superior Court judge Friday cleared the way for trial of a suit against actor Lee Marvin by his former common-law wife, singer Michele Marvin. Judge Jack Clarkard overruled a demurrer by Marvin's attorneys and gave the actor 20 days to file an answer prior to trial of the case.

A demurrer is a plea to the effect that the facts of a case do not support the plaintiff's contentions. Miss Marvin seeks half of the fortune she and Marvin accumulated during the six years they lived together as husband and wife. She further contends she rendered services as a companion, homemaker, housekeeper and cook, and should receive an "equitable" share of the property. An attorney for Miss Marvin said that share would amount to at least $1 million. Marvin, who won an Oscar in 1968, married Pamela Seeley, his current wife, in 1970.

Sir Francis

Sir Francis Chichester was buried Friday in his native Devonshire, from whose soil sprang so many of England's seafaring heroes. "Thousands" of persons lined the streets to pay their last respects as the funeral cortege passed en route to the church of St. Andrews. Police said up to 3,000 gathered outside the church.

The services were simple and the tributes unsentimental to the lone round-the-world yachtsman who all his 70 years pitted his life against danger. His later epic battles with the sea, staged at a time when most men retire to a life of ease, captured the imagination of the world.

Prisoner

Telegrams and letters about Carl Fugate poured into Nebraska after a nationally-televised program about the state's most famous prisoner. The majority of the reaction appeared sympathetic to Miss Fugate, convicted of murder as Charles Starkweather's girl friend in a 1958 killing spree which took 11 lives. The program depicted Miss Fugate's life at the state Women's Reformatory.

Terrorist

Security forces acting on a tip trapped the leader of Uruguay's terrorist Tupamaro guerrillas in a cellar Friday, wounded him in a blazing gunbattle and then captured him and two companions. The leftist chieftain, Raul Sendic, vowed not to be taken alive. But he was cut down by a bullet in the face, and a man and a woman fighting at his side then surrendered. Sendic, 47, was taken to a military hospital in critical condition.

Hessian chief jailed; arms found

Long Beach police Friday arrested the Los Angeles County president of the Hessians motorcycle club on an Orange County warrant. Two hours later, police confiscated a cache of dynamite and a cache of weapons, including a sub-machine gun, at a Harbor Avenue house where they had gone to seek another club member.

A woman at the Harbor Avenue address, Rae Allen Flake, 25, was booked on suspicion of possessing explosives.

Police did not identify the Hessians sought at the house, nor would they say why he was wanted.

The case began at 1:30 p.m. when police, acting on an anonymous tip, arrested Brian James McCluskey, 30, at his home at 421 Adair St. McCluskey, also known as "Bugs" and "Marius Andrew Savoy," is the Hessians' county president.

Det. Sgt. Ron J. Skaggs said the warrant for McCluskey's arrest was issued in Orange County, June 8, 1971, after McCluskey failed to appear for sentencing on conviction of two counts of assault with deadly weapon.

AFTER arresting McCluskey, Skaggs said officers went to the house on Harbor Avenue where they found the weapons, explosives and the Flake woman.

Skaggs said that in addition to the dynamite and submachine gun, the cache included a 9mm semi-automatic "Uzzi," three handguns, a sawed-off double-barreled shotgun, an M-1 carbine, a bolt-action rifle with scope, and a quantity of ammunition. Skaggs said officers also found handcuffs, lead-bearing "sap" gloves and 45 sticks of dynamite.

L.B. man dies 8 hours after freeway crash

A 23-year-old Long Beach man died Friday, eight hours after his speeding car careened out of control on the Terminal Island Freeway and smashed into a concrete bridge support.

Peter John Carillo, of 600 W. Eight St., died at 9:45 a.m. in St. Mary's hospital, where he was taken after the 1:45 a.m. accident on the freeway about a half-mile north of the Heim Bridge.

Police said Carillo was traveling northbound on the freeway at high speed when he apparently lost control of the vehicle and slammed on the brakes.

The car struck a concrete center divider and veered across southbound freeway lanes before crashing into the concrete pillar. Police said Carillo's auto left 450 feet of skid marks at the accident scene.

Trio arraigned in murder at center

Two men and a woman, all of Gardena, were arraigned Friday in Municipal Court at San Pedro on murder and robbery charges in the parking lot shooting of a 44-year-old Torrance man. The defendants, Gerald Larson, 25; his wife, Pamela, 20, and Gene Murray, 25, all of 1660 W. 203rd St., appeared before Judge Walter S. Binns, who ordered them held without bail pending a preliminary hearing in his court Sept. 12.

THEY ARE charged in connection with the death late Tuesday of Otto Shelton, of 1211 W. Torrance Blvd.

Harbor Division police said Shelton was killed in the parking lot of a shopping center at Torrance Boulevard and Western Avenue when he attempted to aid his son-in-law who was being held at gunpoint by two men who earlier had robbed the younger man of his car and $42.

Det. Lt. U.E. Schubach said Shelton's son-in-law, Fred Gardner, 40, of 142 E. Genevieve St., Torrance, was robbed and beaten by Larson and Murray when he visited their home Tuesday afternoon.

Schubach said that Gardner later learned that his car was in the shopping center parking lot and drove there at 11 p.m., with Shelton arriving in another car.

SCHUBACH said the three suspects drove into the lot at the same time and that Larson, armed with a .22-caliber automatic, and Murray approached Gardner and asked for more money. Shelton was gunned down as he approached the men, Schubach said. The detective said six more shots were fired, five of them striking a nearby parked car, before the car carrying the suspects sped from the parking lot. The Larsons and Murray were arrested as they drove up to their home.

1 suspect held, 4 sought in $5,000 L.B. kidnaping

Long Beach police booked a Compton man early Friday in connection with the $5,000 kidnaping of a Long Beach resident about 24 hours earlier.

Michael Caesar, 25, was booked for investigation of kidnaping and extortion following his arrest at his home shortly after midnight.

Police Sgts. Ron Skaggs and Ralph W. Abraham said the ransom was paid Thursday night for 40-year-old Robert Sheard of 1132 E. 17th St., later found wandering in a dazed condition on a street in Carson by sheriff's deputies.

Skaggs and Abraham said four other suspects in the case are being sought, along with the money.

The investigators said the ransom was paid by the victim's wife, Susan, after the kidnapers contacted her and told her they would kill Sheard unless the payoff was made.

Mrs. Sheard did not contact police after the call but officers learned of the demand through a tipster and were investigating the case when Sheard was found in the 19000 block of Caney Avenue.

Sgt. Skaggs said Sheard, who had been beaten with fists about the face and body, was forced to make the telephone call to his wife.

Sheard told officers he was walking toward his home at about 1 a.m. Thursday when he was accosted by three men who blindfolded him and put him in an automobile. They drove him to an unknown location in Los Angeles where he was held pending his release in the Carson area, he said.

Mrs. Sheard drew the money from a savings account and took it to the ransom pickup point outside a telephone booth at a service station at Wardlow Road and Long Beach Boulevard, unaware that her movements were being observed by plainclothes officers in unmarked cars and in a police helicopter.

Detectives did not reveal the lead that led to Caesar's arrest in connection with the kidnaping.

In 1966, Sheard shot and killed a man during an argument over a $16 debt. He was convicted of involuntary manslaughter and placed on three year's probation.

Disposition

I am a bachelor, living solely on Social Security disability, and have no relatives. I have been quite ill and am concerned about what will happen to my body if I should die. I own a cemetery plot, but wonder who will be responsible for burial expenses? H.L.B., San Pedro.

It is very possible since you have a cemetery plot and will receive a Social Security death benefit that some private mortuary will handle your burial, said Robert Reising, chief of the Estate Administration Division of the Public Administrator's office in Los Angeles. He suggests you inform a friend or leave a note in your important papers about your plot and preference for burial or cremation. Reising said anytime a person dies in California and has no heirs in the state the case is sent to the county Public Administrator. If the deceased has sufficient assets to pay burial expenses or if he has enough money due him in death benefits from the Social Security or the Veterans Administration, arrangements will be made for a private mortuary to handle disposition of the body. If there are no such assets or benefits, or if the benefits are too small, the county will arrange for cremation if the deceased is Protestant. If he is Catholic or Jewish, the Catholic Cemetery Association or the Jewish Free Burial Society will arrange for burial.

Cross walker

I am 96 years old, and last night was nearly killed. I was starting to cross 10th Street in front of St. Mary's Hospital when a car rushed by and knocked the cane out of my hand. The driver yelled that I was jay walking. There actually is a pedestrian crosswalk there, but the paint is so badly worn you can hardly see it. Isn't the city supposed to keep these in good shape? R.P.N., Long Beach.

The city no longer is repainting crosswalks on major streets where there are no signals, according to a spokesman for the Long Beach Traffic Engineer's office. "People rely too much on the crosswalks when crossing busy streets," he said. "They just step off the curb regardless of traffic conditions and expect everyone to stop because they're between two white lines. He said the city is repainting pedestrian lanes primarily only in intersections controlled by traffic signals.

Cat tales

Because I could no longer keep her, I took my cat to the National Cat Protection Society shelter, 1528 W. 17th St., Long Beach. I was told that since she had been sprayed she would not be put to sleep, but would be placed in their "retirement center" until someone adopted her. I did not bring her spaying certificate with me when I delivered my cat, because no one had instructed me to do so. But I mailed it to the shelter as soon as I got home. A week later I found a home for the cat and called the shelter. An employee rudely told me that any cat that is there longer than a week automatically is put to sleep and that they kept no records. If I had wanted the cat put to sleep, I'd have taken her to the city pound. Instead I gave this shelter a donation, thinking this would insure her a home. Can ACTION LINE find out why she was put to sleep? Mrs. J.A., La Palma.

Your cat would not have been put to sleep, according to C. Richard Calore, president of the nonprofit National Cat Protection Society. Since your cat is not in the retirement center, she apparently has been placed with new owners, Calore said, although he was unable to say who they are. Proof of spaying is necessary to place a cat in the retirement center, but the shelter would not put an animal to sleep simply because it did not receive a spaying certificate, Calore claimed. He theorized that the employee you spoke with thought you were asking about a kitten. The shelter takes in so many kittens during the summer that many must be put to sleep almost immediately. Calore said the shelter has better luck finding homes for sprayed adult cats. He apologized for the treatment you received when you inquired about your cat.

See what develops

While I was visiting friends in Tustin last March, I left some 35 mm Ektachrome film to be developed at a Cinecolor drive-up booth. When I went to pick up my slides, I found they were from someone else's film. I returned the slides, filled out an identification sheet at the booth and was told the company would try to find my slides. I still have heard nothing and my letters to Cinecolor in Salt Lake City go unanswered. Can ACTION LINE help? E.H.H., London, Ontario, Canada.

Cinecolor sends all Ektachrome films to Dynacolor, 11915 W. Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles, for processing. Ron Quigley, customer service supervisor for Dynacolor, said an all-out search will be made for your film. "It's not likely we'll find it," he said, "but we'll try. If we don't, we can't refund his money, but we will send him a new roll of film."

May bypass 243 generals Haig favored for major Army post

By WILLIAM DEECHER

WASHINGTON — Defense Department civilian leaders are seriously thinking of reaching into the White House for a two-star general of relatively junior rank to fill the second highest military post in the Army.

Well placed Defense Department sources say the job of vice chief of staff of the Army may soon go to Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., deputy national security adviser to President Nixon.

Both Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Secretary of the Army Robert F. Froehke are understood to favor the nomination, if Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, can be persuaded to part with his deputy, and if Nixon approves the move.

To name Haig, who has been a general less than three years, as vice chief of staff with four-star grade, the Army would have to bypass the names of 243 generals with higher rank.

GEN. A. M. HAIG
Kissinger's deputy

THE favorites in senior echelons for the position have been two three-star generals, Lt. Gen. Richard G. Sullivan, deputy chief of staff, for operations, and Lt. Gen. Walter T. Kerwin Jr., deputy chief of staff for personnel.

But informed Pentagon sources say that top civilians in the Defense Department want to reach deeply into the pool of about 500 general officers to promote the bright, young, articulate Haig. They believe he might bring fresh ideas to the position and might also be especially useful in dealing with Congress and the public during the difficult transition to an all-volunteer Army.

Two other two-star generals also are said to be in the running: Maj. Gen. George S. Blanchard Jr., until recently commander of the 82nd Airborne Division and now in charge of personnel plans and budget, and Maj. Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, chief of Army liaison on Capitol Hill.

But Haig reportedly is the odds-on favorite of the Pentagon's civilian leadership.

A FINAL decision and announcement has been delayed, pending Senate action on the nomination of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams to be Army chief of staff. Confirmation by the Senate is anticipated by Pentagon officials within the next two to three weeks.

Abrams' confirmation has been deferred until the Senate can clear up the confusion over whether, when commander of all American forces in Vietnam, he was aware that his Air Force chief, Gen. John Lavelle, had sanctioned falsified reports in order to conduct some unauthorized air strikes in North Vietnam.

EXCLUSIVE N.Y. Times Service

Abrams, at 57, is considered a "soldier's soldier," with extensive combat command experience in World War II, the Korean War and in South Vietnam. He served as vice chief of staff of the Army from the fall of 1964 to the summer of 1967, (when he went to South Vietnam to be groomed to take over command of United States forces there).

Haig, 47, was at the University of Notre Dame and later at West Point while Abrams was commanding major armed units in Europe during World War II.

Both men are armor officers. But while Haig served in combat in Korea and briefly commanded first an infantry battalion and later an infantry brigade in Vietnam, many Pentagon officers are privately complaining that he lacks the top command experience traditionally thought necessary for either of the two top Army assignments.

Haig has long been identified within the Army as one of its "comers."

WHILE he has most impressed Washington officials in key staff positions rather than in command assignments.

From 1963 to 1964 he was deputy special assistant to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Deputy Secretary Cyrus Vance.

At the start of the Nixon administration, Kissinger wanted a military assistant with combat experience who could provide some personal judgments on the feasibility of various military courses of action, to perform administrative chores and to open an informal pipeline to the Pentagon to provide information beyond that coming through normal channels, sources say.

HAIG was a colonel when he became deputy national security adviser to the President in January, 1969, but he soon impressed both Kissinger and Nixon on his ability to "grasp the larger picture, especially on Vietnam policy," as one official put it, and in less than a year was promoted to brigadier general.

"Al is amazing," said one State Department official who has worked with him. "In a high-powered National Security Council staff he's the only man, other than Henry Kissinger, who has personal contact to and standing with the President. If we need an answer, we can go to Al and he'll get it fast."

N.Y. bandit dies in dash from promised escape car

NEW YORK (UPI) — A cornered bandit who held a gun to the head of woman check cashing clerk for three hours was shot to death by policemen Friday when he bolted from a convoy of police cars arranged for a promised escape.

The shootout with police came after hours of negotiation between the bandit and police who surrounded a Brooklyn check cashing firm with sharpshooters and undercover men in answer to a silent alarm.

Authorities said the gunman, identified as Emanuel Parker, was killed in an alleyway by detectives after the man fled a car provided by police and driven by an undercover officer. The suspect took the firm's guard, who had volunteered to take the place of the woman hostage, with him.

According to police, the robber surprised two women clerks at about 8:30 a.m. as they arrived to open the Brooklyn office of the Royal Check Cashing Service.

Holding both women at gunpoint, he forced his way inside, but did not know a silent alarm was sounded at police headquarters, which dispatched a patrol car.

When the officers arrived, the gunman concealed himself and ordered the women to say the alarm had gone off accidentally. The policemen started to leave, and one clerk, Marlene Bernstein, dashed out to join them before the startled gunman could fire.

High U.S. officials doubtful of peace

Unending Viet war seen likely

By CRAIG R. WHITNEY
New York Times Service

SAIGON — Two weeks after Dr. Henry A. Kissinger's surprise visit to Saigon, high-ranking American officials here are talking privately not of a breakthrough in the peace talks, but rather of the possibility of unending war.

The main issue now in Paris, it is clear from recent interviews there, is the Communist's demand that the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu be eliminated as part of a peace settlement, and the American and South Vietnamese insist that this would be the next thing to surrender.

A senior American official here, who consented to a background interview provided that he remain anonymous, said the allies have conceded as much as they can on the political issue. Last Jan. 25, Thieu offered to resign five months after an agreement and one month before new presidential elections, but the Communists have rejected the proposal because the present Saigon administration would stay in place during the interim.

SINCE there is little evidence that the Communist side is softening its position, the only chance of a breakthrough on the political issue, many Saigon officials feel, lies in the allies making still another concession.

There was widespread speculation when Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, arrived here Aug. 16 that he might be coming to talk Thieu into such a concession. He talked with Thieu for about six hours over two days, after which the South Vietnamese leader never seemed more confident of continued American backing of his policy of "four no's," one of which is no imposition of a coalition government with the Communists in the South.

According to one American who sees Thieu frequently, the South Vietnamese leader is confident that Sen. George McGovern poses no real threat to Nixon's reelection and is not even making contingency plans in case McGovern wins and implements his policy of an immediate halt to the bombing of the North and withdrawal of all remaining troops from Vietnam.

SOME South Vietnamese officials in their embassy in Washington have professed some uneasiness as election day approaches about what Nixon might do to defuse the war as a political issue.

In interviews in Washington, some American officials speculated that it might not be necessary to continue the current sustained bombing of North Vietnam, or the mining of its ports, much beyond October, because they expect most of the steam to be gone from the North Vietnamese offensive by then.

But Nixon said last Tuesday that he would not reduce or stop the bombing during the election campaign unless the prospects for a negotiated settlement approved.

In a speech that Thieu made Aug. 1, he said that he thought it necessary to "keep up relentless bombing" of North Vietnam for another six or seven months, but, directing his remarks at Washington, said that "if our allies are determined, peace will be restored in Indochina. If they lack determination, the Communists will revert to their half-guerrilla, half-conventional warfare, and the war will go on in Indochina forever."

stay all such orders it could have used clear and explicit language appropriate to that result.

Powell noted that in another antibusing provision enacted at the same time, Congress specifically prohibited the use of federal funds for busing either for achieving a racial balance in the schools or carrying out a desegregation plan.

"IT IS CLEAR from the juxtaposition and the language of these two sections that Congress intended to proscribe the use of federal funds for the transportation of students under any desegregation plan, but limited the stay provisions of the Broomfield amendment to desegregation plans that seek to achieve racial balance."

In his ruling, Powell relied on the unanimous Supreme Court decision written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger in Swann vs. Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education in April 1971. In that decision Burger drew a distinction between racial balance and desegregation and also upheld busing as a permissible technique to achieve desegregation.

AFTER citing the language of the statute — known in Congress as the Broomfield law after its chief sponsor, Rep. William Broomfield, R-Mich. — Powell said:

"By its terms the statute requires that the effectiveness of a district court order be postponed pending appeal only if the order requires the 'transfer or transportation' of students 'for the purpose of achieving a balance among students with respect to race.'"

"It does not purport to block all desegregation orders which require the transportation of students. If Congress had desired to

Justice Powell ruling backs integration bus in Augusta

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell, in a decision that blunted a key congressional antibusing weapon, Friday refused to delay a school desegregation plan for Augusta, Ga.

Powell held that a law by which Congress intended to prevent court desegregation orders from taking effect until all appeals have been exhausted, did not apply in the Augusta case.

THE NEW statute, enacted only two months ago, postpones until final appeal the effective date of desegregation orders "for the purpose of achieving a balance among students with respect to race."

Powell ruled that the order requiring Augusta to desegregate 29 elementary schools was designed to end unlawful school segregation, not to achieve a racial balance.

The decision was a blow to antibusing forces in Congress, who at the time of enactment predicted the new law would effectively halt any expansion of busing.

Powell's decision, rendered in his capacity as

Woman planned to die, but failed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mrs. Juanita Clark, a divorcee and an attractive secretary living alone, planned to die. She made the arrangements.

She visited Charles R. Johnson, manager of the Redwood Chapel funeral home in Novato on Aug. 1. "She was very calm," Johnson said. "She simply explained that she was planning ahead."

Mrs. Clark, in her early 40s, selected a walnut casket, said she wanted services to be conducted by the Rev. Harold Parsley of the Valley Baptist Church in San Francisco. She also wanted funeral notices to appear in the newspapers and memorial contributions sent to the Heart Association and the Cancer Society.

Johnson accepted an initial payment of $603.40 for deposit with a stipulation that on her death Social Security benefits of $255 would be added.

The arrangement was normal, Mrs. Clark's brother, Kenneth Wehring, Novato, and she had attended the funeral of Wehring's wife at the funeral parlor about three years ago.

Johnson confirmed the arrangements on Aug. 17 in a letter to Mrs. Clark.

Friday she drove her Rambler to the parking lot near the old Fort Point Historic Museum. She put Johnson's affirmation letter beside her on the seat. She took a .38 caliber revolver and fired a neat circle of five shots into the left side of her chest.

The wounds were in a circle of less than three inches, police said. The fifth was just outside.

Patrolmen Pelham Wilmerding and John Gallagher found her still alive.

"I did it myself," she whispered. "I wanted to die. I couldn't even do it right."

She hadn't. Doctors at Letterman Hospital said she'll probably live.

Corona to show writing

FAIRFIELD (AP) — Juan Corona's attorney capitulated Friday to prosecution demands for court-supervised handwriting samples after refusing for weeks to provide them despite two contempt citations.

Defense attorney Richard E. Hawk told the court he yielded because the prosecution obtained a state Court of Appeal order Thursday staying the start of Corona's murder trial pending a Sept. 12 hearing on the handwriting issue.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Richard E. Patton of Colusa County ordered that the handwriting sample be taken in court next Tuesday, the date the trial originally was to have started.

Patton set Sept. 11 as the trial's new opening date.

Duane Dillon, a Contra Costa County handwriting expert, was summoned to referee Tuesday's handwriting sample.

Patton earlier had granted the prosecution's motion ordering Corona to provide handwriting samples in open court to compare with a handwritten list of 34 names allegedly found in Corona's house, but the defense had refused to comply.

The list reportedly includes names of seven of the 25 itinerant farm workers Corona, a farm labor contractor, is accused of murdering.

The men's hacked bodies were found buried in Marysville-Yuba City orchards near the Feather River May, 1971.

Hawk said he refused to allow the handwriting samples earlier because he wanted them submitted in front of the jury.

Sutter County Dist. Atty. G. Dave Teja said in asking the appeal court to delay the trial his case would be "irreparably damaged" unless he receives "the benefits of all legally available, admissible and material evidence."

But his deputy, Bart Williams, argued in court Friday that the case should remain before the appellate court because it concerned Hawk's "disobedience" as well as the handwriting question.

However, Patton said the language of the appeal court's stay deals specifically with the handwriting samples and ruled that if they can be obtained, the case should proceed.

Patton twice earlier held both Hawk and Corona in contempt for refusing to provide handwriting samples in court.

Hawk had offered the prosecution a sample he said had been taken of Corona's handwriting, but Teja countered that a sample made outside of court would not satisfy the state's burden of proof.

Better money in death than in life

MARYSVILLE (AP) — A quirk in federal law may qualify the families of five fire fighters killed in a helicopter crash for bigger lifetime benefits than some of the crash victims were earning when alive, a federal official revealed Friday.

The five men killed in the crash in Los Padres National Forest left a total of 21 children, 15 of them under age 18.

All the victims were farm laborers who worked parttime on call as U.S. Forest Service fire fighters each year after the harvest season. They were members of Los Diablos Fire Fighters Club, a 400-man Marysville area fire-fighting corps made up primarily of farm laborers. The members are paid 2.95 to 64.90 per hour, depending on their experience and job category.

THE PILOT was also killed and four other members of the fire-fighting club were injured when the helicopter crashed en route to the fireline a week ago.

"They'll do quite well once we get the situation and all the paperwork straightened out," said James Yocum, claims chief for the San Francisco region office of the Office of Federal Employees Compensation.

Yocum said the death benefits the families of the five fire fighters will receive will range from 40 per cent of their monthly salaries up to 75 per cent for men with three children or more, plus medical bills and up to $800 burial expenses.

But the quirk that will boost benefits for the survivors is that they were parttime workers on duty for long hours.

YOCUM said when benefits are calculated for injured or killed parttime federal workers the law requires that daily salaries be prorated out to calculate a comparable monthly rate.

He said each of the five men had been working for just four days fighting the Los Padres fire before the fatal accident, some of them up to 16 hours a day. A preliminary calculation of wages of one of the fire fighters came up with a salary equivalent of $750 a month and monthly benefits of three-quarters that amount, Yocum related.

"This is more than some benefits for workers killed after 30 years service," Yocum said. "They are most liberal."

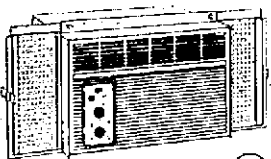

He said no emergency federal benefits can be paid any of the families until their death benefit applications have been processed, but that special arrangements have been made to process the claims as soon as possible.

IN THE meantime, a citizens group in this Sacramento Valley farming community has set up a trust fund to receive contributions to help support the five fatherless families, described as "very poor, with very great needs" by one of the trustees of the fund.

Small town called Asia drug center
Gateway for heroin to U.S.
By K.B. SUWAN

TACHILEK, BURMA (AP)—U.S. narcotics officials say this sleepy river town is the drug capital of Asia and the gateway for Asian drugs destined for the United States.

Somewhere in the town there is said to be a large-scale opium refinery owned by a mysterious Chinese named Lo Hsing-han and managed by his brother Lo Hsing-min. The factory turns out morphine base, red rock heroin and pure No. 4 heroin for sale abroad.

Questions about drugs are met with hostile silence from the townspeople—a mixture of Thai, Burmese, Laos, Shan, Yunnanese and hill-tribes people.

Tachilek, with a population of about 10,000, is across the Mae Sal river from Mae Sai in Thailand. The two towns are connected by a concrete bridge, the terminus of Thai Highway 1 running due south for 500 miles to the capital at Bangkok.

This highway is one of the most important arteries for Asia's drug traffic. Narcotics officials say drugs travel this route to Bangkok, Saigon, Laos, Hong Kong and eventually the United States.

THE bridge here is guarded at the Burmese side by two soldiers, one of them carrying an old Thompson submachine gun. The Burmese flag flutters languidly over the small customs office just off the road.

Stalls offer cheap Thai-made trinkets. The Burmese allow Thais to cross from Mae Sal during daylight hours. The Thais offer for the same facility—no passports are needed. Thai police and military officials who make the journey take off insignia of rank and leave them and their sidearms on the Thai side before they cross.

No cameras are allowed. Thai officials said a Thai who infringed this rule a month ago was arrested and has not been heard of since.

There is an air of conspiracy in this town.

Apart from being the headquarters of Lo Hsing-han, who is said to be the opium king of Asia, Tachilek is also a major smuggling center. Goods from Thailand come in for sale in the flourishing Burmese black market, which feeds on the shortages of Burma's nationalized economy. The goods move from Tachilek north to Kien Tung and from there to Mandalay and eventually Rangoon.

POLICING of the border for smuggling and drugs is a hard job for both the Thais and the Burmese. The river, only knee deep in the dry season, is easily forded.

The Burmese have 14 check points in 11 miles along this section of the border. These don't seem to deter traffic in contraband. Opium traffickers use side roads and pony trails through the hills, bypassing checkpoints.

The Thais, in response to prodding from the United States, are making an effort to halt the flow of drugs across the border. They have established task forces in the towns of Lamphong and Chiang Mai with help from the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs.

In Burma, the government has been slow to take action.

"They don't want to stir the bees in the hive," said one official.

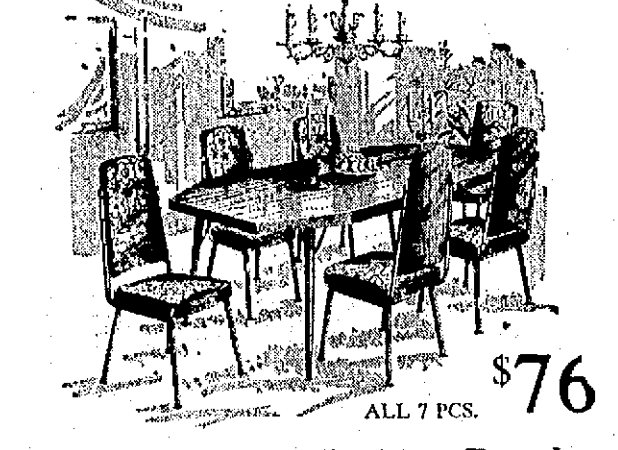

"That's why a heroin factory can function in Tachilek without fear of reprisals from the authorities."

Crime gap discovered in survey

Silent victims tilt FBI total

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government survey eventually reaching into 350,000 American homes, may find crime rates higher than those reported by the FBI.

By keeping interviews with crime victims confidential, surveyors are discovering a gap between what shows up on police blotters and what actually occurs on the street.

Last week, the FBI reported the modest 7 per cent increase in the crime rate, the lowest figure since 1955.

All of the FBI statistics are contributed voluntarily by local and state police agencies. They're accuracy depends upon the willingness of both victims and police to report serious violations of law.

This year, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration is sponsoring surveys in eight cities: Portland, Ore., Cleveland, St. Louis, Atlanta, Newark, Baltimore, Dallas and Denver.

Census Bureau surveys conducted by LEAA are approaching 10,000 households of various income levels in each city.

Early results show crime victims are describing many incidents either not reported to police or reported sketchily.

Census Bureau official Earl Gerson said, for example, many more crimes than previously believed seem to be committed by acquaintances or relatives of the victim.

That includes both crimes of violence and property, he said.

Still another census official said, "a woman might be raped and robbed and not want to say she'd been raped."

In addition, there are ghetto residents who don't report crimes because they have no faith in a police investigation resulting in arrests.

Asked if the LEAA-sponsored survey might reduce or eliminate the inaccuracies, he said, "I don't know. I don't think there were serious differences between what actually occurs and what is reported. I don't think they'd be spending the money."

He estimated the 1972 cost of the survey to run between $5 and $10 million.

Preliminary polls have already been run in Dayton, Ohio, and San Jose.

Extradition of smuggling suspect set

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department said Friday that alleged drug smuggler Auguste Ricard will be brought to the United States shortly, but for safety's sake, his exact arrival schedule will not be made public in advance.

Spokesman Charles W. Bray said Paraguay's president, Alfredo Stroessner, was signing the final papers Friday for Ricard's extradition. This would allow U.S. agents to take him to the United States.

Ricard has been in an Asuncion jail pending Paraguayan judicial proceedings on a U.S. extradition request. He is under New York grand jury indictment in a narcotics smuggling case.

"He is very much a wanted man, and not only by the U.S. government," Bray said, "and we would like to have him alive, well and hopefully helpful in this country."

He said Ricard will be asked many questions in the proceedings against him here.

Calif. GOP avoiding infighting for '74 races until after Nov. 7

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California Republicans lining up to run for governor or the U.S. Senate in 1974 have privately agreed to stay in the starting blocks until after the November election.

The idea is to avoid any premature bloodletting that might puncture party unity and jeopardize President Nixon's chances of carrying California over Democrat George McGovern and picking up the state's 45 electoral votes.

Presidential counselor Robert H. Finch, one of those considering a 1974 race, disclosed the pact Thursday while campaigning here for Nixon. It was confirmed Friday by other sources, including a key Nixon campaign official who asked not to be identified.

"Nobody's going to be doing anything to jeopardize the President's chances of carrying California," said State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, who reportedly is 80 per cent certain of running for governor in 1974.

But once the election is over," Flournoy continued, "there will be a lot of options exercised. Then you begin to talk openly about running and try to get people to support you."

The agreement has been informally dubbed "the Mitchell edict" because it was proposed by former Nixon campaign chief John N. Mitchell at a meeting last October in Los Angeles of leading California Republicans and potential 1974 candidates.

Essentially, the agreement does not prohibit potential candidates from engaging in normal politicking, such as public speech making. But it does discourage them from soliciting the support of party leaders, building campaign organizations and seeking financial backing.

"We have kind of an agreement among Republican would-be candidates, including the governor, that we'll avoid any warfare or jockeying around until after we get this job done," Finch told the Sacramento Rotary Club in reply to a question about his own political future.

Finch, former California lieutenant governor, intends to decide by next June whether to run for one of two offices.

Besides Finch and Flournoy, Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke and Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger have their eyes on the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Finch also is considering a Senate bid, as is Gov. Reagan, who has announced he will not run for a third gubernatorial term.

Unruh intends to seek mayor's post

United Press International

Former Assembly Speaker Jess Unruh endorsed the McGovern-Shriver Democratic ticket Monday and said he had "intentions" to run for mayor of Los Angeles in 1973.

At a news conference, Unruh called on Democrats to ignore the polls and work for a McGovern victory in November.

Asked if he intended to run for mayor here next year, he said, "I have those intentions but I'm not announcing them."

Unruh was critical of Democratic Party defectors to President Nixon and said that most of them apparently were motivated by "who they think is going to win."

"I call on Democrats to ignore the polls," he said.

Unruh was the Democratic candidate for governor in 1970, losing to Ronald Reagan.

D.A. appeals Huff trial gag order

Dist. Atty. Joseph L. Busch Friday filed a petition with the State Court of Appeals in Los Angeles opposing the gag rule imposed by Superior Court Judge Julius Leetham in the Joyce Ann Huff murder case. The Busch petition for a writ of mandate and prohibition attacks the validity of the gag order, prohibits its enforcement and seeks a stay of execution on it pending a hearing. Busch said the petition is based on two basic concerns:

—There must be no prior restraint on First Amendment rights.

—Judge Leetham's gag order did not apply the "clear and present danger" test.

That test, Busch said, is that no restraint on any First Amendment freedom can be invoked without an offering of adequate proof of such danger. Leetham's gag order, issued Aug. 11, extends to the news media as well as all concerned with the murder case. Previous gag rules have applied only to those involved in trials.

The Busch petition was presented to the appeals court clerk by Chief Deputy Dist. Atty. John Howard, who said:

"Ours is an independent action as opposed to the action by the newspapers which are affected. We are talking for everyone—specifically for freedom of speech."

McGovern to speak at IAM convention

The International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, which has more than 900,000 members in the United States and Canada, will open a 10-day convention Tuesday.

The IAM's Grand Lodge Convention, the union's top policy making and judicial body, will run through Sept. 14 at the Los Angeles Convention Center. It is scheduled to be attended by more than 1,800 representatives.

Because the IAM is the largest AFL-CIO union in California, the convention is a crucial one for the Democratic Party.

Scheduled to make appearances here are Democratic presidential candidate George S. McGovern, vice presidential candidate R. Sargent Shriver and Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

McGovern will address the convention Wednesday.

Report rejects vehicle switch to natural gas

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A crash study to find out if the seven million vehicles in smog plagued Southern California should be ordered to immediately convert to clean-burning propane or natural gas has concluded that the idea is impractical, a report showed Friday.

The main reason given was that there is not enough of the so-called "gaseous fuels" to supply the demand, nor is there a sufficient distribution network.

Further study was promised, however, on the possibility of converting all government and privately owned fleet vehicles which state officials say account for about one-third of the area's vehicle traffic.

The California Air Resources Board submitted its report to Gov. Reagan Thursday, based on studies by the ARB staff and evidence taken during two days of hearings in Los Angeles Aug. 17 and 18.

Reagan, under heavy pressure from officials and legislators from the South Coast Air Basin, had asked the board to report to him on the feasibility of the mass conversion. Under the plan, all vehicles would either have to stop burning gasoline or get off the road.

The South Coast Air Basin reaches from Santa Barbara to northern San Diego County and includes about half the state's cars and population.

The City of Riverside had specifically asked Reagan to declare a state of emergency in the area and to order the mass conversion. But Reagan replied he had no legal power to do that. Instead, he asked the ARB to prepare a report which could be used as the basis for proposed legislation.

The board said it would continue, at its Sept. 12-13 meetings in Los Angeles, to consider whether conversion of fleet vehicles is practical. That would involve all government-owned vehicles plus those operated by taxi companies, utilities, rental cars and the like.

The study says gasoline consumption in the basin totals about four billion gallons a year which could not be matched from existing supplies of propane and natural gas.

To supply natural gas for cars, the report adds, would mean taking it away from industrial users which presumably then would have to switch to "dirtier" fuels themselves.

New plan designed to up egg prices

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A new marketing program approved by the Reagan administration is expected to raise the retail egg prices by 3 to 4 cents a dozen, it was disclosed Friday.

Frank Bennett, manager of the egg program in the State Agriculture Department, said the program, to be started Monday, is designed to drive prices upward by removing nearly 10 per cent of eggs from the market. The program was approved last June by a majority of California's 550 egg producers.

STATE Agriculture Director C. B. Christensen, who approved the plan, said overproduction of eggs has dropped prices below the cost of production for most egg ranchers.

Christensen said the marketing controls were not "in line" with the Reagan administration's free market philosophy because, in effect, the controls require the consumer to subsidize inefficient egg producers.

"But in this case," he said, "it looked to us like even the efficient producer was in trouble."

The controls will automatically expire Dec. 31, 1973, permitting a return to the free market system. But the program could be extended.

UNDER THE plan, each producer is permitted to market 200 cases per week (30 dozen to the case) without controls. But the remainder must be cut by 10 per cent, either by diverting the 10 per cent into a surplus pool or by cutting the size of the flock so that 10 per cent is not produced. Eggs going into the pool must be kept off the current market.

Bennett predicted the majority of growers would choose not to produce, if only because there is little reason to spend money to produce eggs for a surplus pool.

2,000 lettuce workers strike state, Arizona

SALINAS (UPI)—About 2,000 lettuce workers of the United Farm Workers Union in California and Arizona went on strike Friday against Inter Harvest Inc., one of the largest lettuce growers in the West.

The union set up picket lines at ranches in the Salinas area after expiration of their contract with the company at midnight. Strikers said they would remain off work until a new contract is signed.

Also affected were the firm's workers in the Imperial Valley and in Arizona.

Negotiations on a new contract have been continuing since Monday between Dolores Huerta, UFW representative, and the company.

President Harold Bradshaw of Inter Harvest said negotiations were proceeding with no impasses in sight. He said he expected an agreement soon.

Brown criticized on anti-pot stand

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s opposition to the California marijuana initiative "clearly puts him in the Dark Ages with young voters," the coordinator of the initiative said Friday.

"His position indicates he thinks there should be a law against anything he doesn't like," said Robert Ashford, state coordinator for Proposition 19, which proposes removal of criminal penalties for marijuana possession.

"We'd like to challenge him to a debate to see if he'd like to back up his prejudices and maybe we can bring him back to reality," he added.

Brown said Thursday he opposes Prop. 19 "because it would mean by this action government would legitimize certain patterns of behavior."

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY

Your birthday today: Excitement, progress enter your life early in the year. Adjustments are in order, not difficult to make. Today's natives usually have mystical interests, seldom seen special personal skills.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Enjoy this reasonably quiet Sunday. Invitations based on your recent approaches to others and eligibility are at hand.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Seek the shortest and most pleasant path this Sunday. Romantic and sentimental considerations tend to take your attention.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): It is all right to scatter your attentions and energies today, but not so much your money. Visit and catch up on community news.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Going along with a group has special dividends, relieves you of some personal chores, may bring an introduction important to you.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Give, if you can afford it and really care. There are likely emotional expressions going on you'd rather keep out of notice.

Virgo (Aug. 24-Sept. 22): Go along with family, friends for special events, excursions, wherever conditions permit. Get off your regular track for a change.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make your appearance promptly for your share of Sunday observances. Make a broad circuit of visits, take in public entertainments.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Waite family reunions are in order, help get them together. Time invested in group affairs makes the difference in future ventures.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Within the bounds of propriety, have a fling this lively Sunday. You are barely past your lowest ebb for business.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Confront rivals and interesting people with your brightest good humor for a lively day of many quips of circumstance.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Let people be themselves, do the spontaneous thing with them, let nature take its course. Venture into unaccustomed directions.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Harmony is your keyword for today. Bring people together, make cheerful ceremonies of everyday amenities. Be yourself.

Perpetual plum yield

Independent, Press-Telegram photographer Kent Henderson took this picture of the 3-year-old dwarf Santa Rosa plum tree growing in the yard of his home in Naples. The tree now is blooming for the third time this summer. Kent harvested plums early this spring, is picking the second crop, and says he hopes to see the third before long.

Jobs to do now

Outdoor, nonforced cyclamen — which can be obtained at nurseries — should be planted in the northeast corner of your property where they will be exposed to the sun for a few hours, but in shade for the rest of the day. Plant them in an organic mulch — mixed with soil — and keep moist. The tops of the bulbs should appear above the ground.

The symptoms of fungus infestation in a blade lawn are distinct from those indicating moth worm. Irregular brown patches suggest the presence of lawn moth worm, if there are wisps or patches of green lawn within the brown. Use a stomach-type spray for this condition. A fungus spray is used when the areas are completely brown or dead.

SUGGESTIONS

Shrubs, lawns, trees, ground covers and bulbs are being planted out this month. Sow flowers such as agrostemma, alyssum, snapdragon, aretola, brodiaea, carnation, wallflower, cineraria, primrose, delphinium, gypsophila, delphinium, California poppy, gailardia, gerbera, heliopsis, larkspur, linaria, mignonette, myosotis, nasturtium, Iceland poppy, calendula, pyrethrum, scabiosa, Shasta daisy, statice, stock, viola, pansy.

Set out snapdragon, stock, calendula, Iceland poppy, carnation, gypsophila, dimorphotheca, delphinium, gerbera, Shasta daisy, scabiosa, pentstemon, nicotiana, saxifrage, day lily, agapanthus, helleborus, begonia, English primrose.

Sow vegetables such as broccoli, beet, cabbage, cauliflower, carrot, celery, mustard, onion, celery, mustard, onion, peas, radish, spinach, winter squash, Swiss chard, turnip.

Plant cabbage, cauliflower, parsley, mint lettuce.

Ask the Old Farmer: Do you believe in second sight? A friend of mine said her father got second sight when past eighty years of age. S.C.G., Tampa, Florida.

If you refer to the seeing of visions and the like, we do not. We never saw anything that we couldn't account for. But if you mean that aging and afflicted eyes eventually become young and strong again, yes, we know 'tis so. In theory, if a person's eyes are not diseased, they will fail in middle age or before and require glasses. But, if well improved and continue to do so until, in some cases, the glasses can be thrown away.

Home Hint: Chill leftover cooked cereal, then pan-fry and serve with butter... Drop a small piece of butter in rice or spaghetti water and it won't boil over... If you use wine in cooking you are not feeding alcohol to your family since it will lose its alcoholic content under heat... Riddle answer: Authorship.

Roses should be fed soon.

There are two kinds of rose suckers. One is undesirable, because it grows from the trunk of the rose bush, or up from a root beside the trunk. Such rose suckers are removed. One of the past presidents of the Pacific Rose Society recommended jerking these suckers from the plants. He explained if you cut it off it develops more secondary growths later.

The other sucker-like growth is not such, if it grows from the bud union or from the lower portion of one of the old, thick canes that has many secondary branches. Such new desirable growths are called basal canes.

THESE BASAL canes replace an equal number of oldest many branched canes when the roses are pruned during the winter season. Basal canes that grew a foot or two taller than the normal outline of the bush should be cut back to shape it.

A last reminder: visit a park rose garden and a nursery to check up on the colors and new varieties. Not down the variety names for winter bare root season planting. You may find some quality roses in containers which can be planted out right away. In growth they'll be about a year ahead of the bare root roses you set out late this year or very early next year.

Be sure to check up on the 1973 AARS roses. They're the ones that came through the rigorous rose tests throughout the country and proved to be the best in terms of weather growing conditions, color, disease resistance, and flower holding qualities.

MEDALLION, a hybrid tea, large, husky-growing bush, furnishes probably the largest apricot-pink, lightly scented, lovely, flowers, of any variety that received an AARS award. William Warriner is the hybridizer.

ELECTRON, hybrid tea is an Irish rose hybridized by Sam McGrady IV of Portadown, Northern Ireland. The fragrant, bright, rose-pink, large blossoms are long lasting and hold their color well. It has won 9 awards in England, Holland, Spain, Scandinavia, Germany and Austria.

GYPSY, a husky hybrid tea rose, hybridized by O. L. Weeks, has fiery orange-red flowers, which have a slight spicy fragrance.

Not having any space left for roses in our two garden areas, we dug up nearly four feet of dichondra lawn along the north boundary line of our property in the front yard to plant roses.

They're doing very well.

Of course, the dichondra lawn has to be fertilized

ELECTRON... Hybrid Tea 1973 AARS Winner

periodically to provide a lush green carpet which helps to emphasize bright colors of the roses.

October is the month to plant and renovate lawns.

Many dichondra lawns have weed problems. Crab grass is seeding, quite a lot of spurge is seeding, and winter blue grass seeds have been lying dormant during the summer season. It is time to combat the weed seeds and feed the lawn. There are turf fertilizers, for dichondra only, which contain herbicides. These blends feed the lawn and kill the weed seeds.

Some such combination fertilizer-herbicides may only contain one primary fertilizer element. Others might have the three primary fertilizer elements plus the herbicides, plus trace minerals as well as insecticide for control of turf destructive soil pests. It is wise to check the fine print on the backs of the sacks to determine which provides the most for your money.

McGovern eases party ills, gears for battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — George McGovern and his campaign manager acted to smooth ruffled feathers and improve communications in their own organization Friday while gearing up for a two-week campaign swing that kicks off the Democrat's big push to oust President Nixon from the White House.

McGovern and his running mate, Sargent Shriver, met at McGovern's house while across town campaign manager Gary Hart and McGovern strategist Lawrence F. O'Brien were attempting to define their own roles in the troubled campaign.

McGovern later announced O'Brien would stay on as his national chairman while Hart would continue his duties as the actual day-to-day boss of the campaign organization.

"In a separate news conference later, Hart told newsmen they were making too much of an issue of the campaign organization."

"There is no straight-line top-to-bottom organization," Hart said as he advised newsmen to concentrate more on the issues and on President Nixon's campaign. "The voters aren't going to vote for the presidency on the issue of who plays what role in the campaign."

O'Brien, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, complained about the decentralized nature of McGovern's campaign organization in an interview published Thursday in the Knight Newspapers. He strongly indicated he would quit the campaign if some changes weren't made by Labor Day, which is Monday.

BUT McGovern, Hart and O'Brien aides said Friday O'Brien would stay on in the McGovern-Shriver organization. Whether any actual change in responsibilities results from Friday's spasm of meetings and press conferences remains to be seen, but McGovern and Hart each said no changes in campaign structure were contemplated.

However, a memo to McGovern-Shriver staffers signed by Hart said Gordon Weil, McGovern's executive assistant in the Senate, will become executive director of the campaign.

His responsibilities, according to the memo, will include clearance of all McGovern policy statements, supervision of a campaign operations center and promotion of "improved communication inside the staff" to deal with urgent situations.

McGovern leaves Washington Sunday on his first major campaign swing, although since the Democratic convention in early July he has made several two-to-four day trips.

SEN. MCGOVERN ponders question outside his Washington home. He met with newsmen in his own front yard Friday following a conference with his running mate, Sargent Shriver.

THIS two-week excursion will open in Hilton Head, S.C., Sunday night with an appearance at the Southern Governors Conference and include Akron, Ohio, and several West Coast cities in the first two days. Nearly the entire trip will be spent west of the Mississippi River.

"There is no doubt in our mind that on the eve of the formal kickoff, George McGovern and Sargent Shriver will be elected in November," Hart said Friday afternoon.

He predicted Nixon's current lead in the polls (34 points in the Gallup Poll) will be reduced to 15-20 points by Sept. 25, to 8-10 points by the second week of October, 5 points or less by the third week of October and McGovern and Nixon will go into election day Nov. 7 at a tossup.

Hart also said Nixon should be held accountable for the burglary and apparent bugging of the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate apartment complex June 17. One of the five arrested in the Watergate had worked for the Committee to Re-Elect the President. Other reports say other men with White House connections were in the Watergate the night of the burglary and fled when police arrived.

Hart and McGovern, in their separate news conference Friday, said the Democratic candidates would stress tax reforms as a campaign issue. They criticized Nixon for his "secret plan" to deal with tax reform. Hart charged the President would seek to impose some form of national sales tax sometime after the election.

In other political developments:

—McGovern's office praised Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., for sending a letter to one million potential contributors in support of McGovern's candidacy. When McGovern is elected, Kennedy had said in his letter, "we can build the kind of society we want... the kind Robert Kennedy dreamed of when he asked us to seek a newer world."

—John N. Mitchell, former Atty. Gen. and one-time director of Nixon's reelection effort, told newsmen he "had no advance knowledge of the bugging incident" at the Watergate. But he did not make the same statement during a civil court proceeding Friday because he stopped testifying pending a ruling on a motion that the case be halted to avoid adverse publicity jeopardizing defendants' rights in a later criminal hearing.

"The lawyers got into some sort of wrangle about the motion and I was advised by my attorney not to proceed until the court rules" on the motion, Mitchell said.

—Clark MacGregor, campaign director of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, in response to McGovern's renewed request that Nixon debate him, sent a letter to McGovern saying:

"Whatever chances there might have been for a debate have certainly been destroyed by your continuous low road campaign and personal attack against the character and motivation of the President of the United States. I refer to your continuous effort to compare the President of the United States with Adolf Hitler, one of the most barbarous murderers of the 20th century."

U.S.-JAPAN TRADE PACT

um enrichment services from the U.S.

An attachment to the summit communique by U.S. Ambassador Robert Ingersoll and Deputy Vice Foreign Minister Kiyohiko Tsurumi also noted agreement for prompt establishment of a two-country working group to study a joint venture for construction in the U.S. of a gaseous diffusion enrichment facility for peaceful uses. The total investment would be about 1 billion dollars, submitted in about equal shares by the Japanese government and by private American investors.

President Nixon expressed his appreciation at recent Japanese government decisions which would allow improved American investment opportunities in Japanese retailoring, processing and packaging and allow greater sales of American computer products in Japan.

Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson was profuse in commending the warm atmosphere of the Nixon-Tanaka summit. The words are traditionally used, he said, but they were more substantial here "than in any meeting I have attended in recent years."

Johnson said the summit occurred "not by crisis in our relationships" but because of the President's desire to establish an early acquaintanceship with the new Japanese leader "as the basis for a relationship over the years to come."

The undersecretary said he was impressed by Tanaka's description of the working dinner session as a "family affair."

"I have never attended an official function that was more informal or where the spirit was warmer," Johnson said, "and Tanaka and President Nixon were both pleased."

Ingersoll said the 1.1 billion dollars transfer of goods and funds cannot be put into any exact time frame because Japan and the U.S. do not have control over world conditions which could affect them.

However, it is likely, he said, that advance payments for agricultural products and for uranium enrichment services will be received by the U.S. before March 31, representing more than 700 million dollars in short-term relief to the balance of trade.

Undersecretary Johnson stressed that the current U.S.-Japan trade imbalance cannot be settled in a bilateral context. Europe is an important element as well, he said.

"But we are satisfied that Japan is serious in trying to resolve it. Japan's earnest efforts have been demonstrated."

Asked about the impact on the two-nation mutual security pact in the face of Japanese overtures to establish trade and diplomacy with the People's Republic of China, Johnson said, "we are entirely satisfied that Japan has no intention of acting in any way contrary to our mutual security interests — and that's an all-embracing statement."

Ingersoll acknowledged that advance payments from Japan for goods and services to be delivered in the future is helpful but not the correct way to cure the fundamental imbalance. "The fundamental problems can still remain."

He said settlement of the problem is not just a matter of concessions to the United States because "Japan needs to fight possible protectionist action" by the U.S.

He said Japan also needs to receive goods rather than just pile up dollars. "And so it's a mutual interest, not a one-way problem."

Nixon decorates retiring admiral

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

HONOLULU — President Nixon Friday presented the Distinguished Service Medal to retiring Admiral John S. McCain Jr., 61, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific at a spectacular 38-minute 50-gun change of command.

Before a crowd of 6,000, Nixon also pledged to "never take any steps that would see this nation fall into the No. 2 spot in the world. This will mean more weapons for us in some instances, but we are going to get them."

The crowd of 6,000 plus got the message, too, for Hawaii is more dependent on the military in its economy (No. 2) than tourism — far away second.

ADM. MCCAIN was relieved by Adm. Noel Gayler in the most prestigious of the U.S. unified commands — a command taking in over half the people of the world.

The President lauded McCain for being "one of the greatest Americans, like your father before you and your son a prisoner of war for nearly five years."

The President presented McCain with a second oak leaf cluster for his distinguished service medal.

The doughty little admiral held Pacific command for four years. His relief, Adm. Gayler is a naval aviator whose most recent assignment was as chief of the National Security Agency in Washington, D.C.

Nixon also reiterated his earlier statement that the POWS "will never be abandoned."

Then in a salute to active duty personnel, he said, "It is time to pay them the respect they are due for being our guardians of peace today."

McCain traveled about a million miles while Pacific commander and led the implementation of the Vietnamization program and the mining of Haiphong harbor in May.

FISCHER CHAMP

When the word of Spassky's defeat had spread to the waiting crowd, several people congratulated the reporter.

"Fischer deserved it," a young man said.

Another was skeptical, asking: "From where do you know it? I don't believe it."

By this time, the auditorium inside was filled with members who came to listen to an analysis of the game. Most of them didn't seem to know the titled had emigrated.

The commentator began with Thursday's first move and continued with explanations of how Spassky had got himself into an impossible position.

The analyst reached the 40th move, the point where the game was adjourned. He said: "There isn't any reason to continue, because Spassky resigned."

"What?" one man cried above the general clamor. "That's terrible," another said.

"He should have fought it out," said a third.

There had been no announcement on the radio or television. Tass, the Soviet news agency, did not publish the news for nearly two hours after the western news agencies had moved it.

After the din had subsided, the reaction in the club was one of grudging acceptance. They never doubted, they said, that Fischer would win. Their surprise was at Spassky's "premature" decision to resign.

Fischer stands to win $156,000 in prize money and can count on thousands more from book royalties, public appearances and the like.

His victory in the 21st game, adjourned overnight, gave him 12½ points to the Russian's 8½.

Spassky will receive about $100,000. He won only three games, one on a forfeit, and Fischer seven. They drew 11 times, each draw counting half a point.

Tropical storm Carrie loses strength, gale winds dying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tropical storm Carrie continued to lose strength Friday and slowed almost to a halt about 375 miles out in the Atlantic east of Cape Hatteras.

In an evening bulletin the Weather Bureau said Carrie's highest sustained winds had dipped to about 45 miles per hour near the center, and the storm was expected to continue to lose strength.

Small craft warnings were displayed along the East Coast from Provincetown, Mass., southward to the Carolinas for rough seas and heavy surf. Gale winds extending out 200 miles in the northern half of the storm and 100 miles in the southern half were expected to fall below gale force (40 miles per hour) by this afternoon.

At 6 p.m. EDT Carrie's center was located near latitude 35.5 north, and longitude 69.2 west. The storm was expected to drift slowly northward Saturday at less than 10 miles per hour.

Another tropical storm, Betty, its force also greatly diminished, continued on a northward path far out in the Atlantic after skirting the Azores.

The $585-million figure did not include damage to farms or government property. The federal government has estimated total storm damage at $2.2 billion.

Decoration or nuisance?

Pasture is stirring up a fuss in Lakewood

By LARRY LYNCH
Staff Writer

Plunkett's pasture is creating a fuss in Lakewood. "It's just simply for decoration," says Donald R. Plunkett, who for 24 years has leased 5.4 acres from Southern California Edison Co. to graze animals behind his home at 5775 Allington St.

The pasture—a green field with small, gentle hills—now supports 10 horses, a colt, three ponies, a miniature hereford, three geese and an uncounted flock of pet ducks.

It is surrounded by homes.

But is it a nuisance?

City officials maintain that at the least it is in violation of zoning ordinances, and they have threatened to file a criminal complaint against Plunkett because he refuses to comply with city guidelines.

THE DISPUTE seems to be over how many animals and ducks Plunkett can pasture there, and who the animals can belong to. As he understands the guidelines, the city will allow him two animals per acre and five ducks, as long as they all belong to him. Right now he is grazing horses for others.

But the real threat is the criminal complaint.

Edison officials have told Plunkett that if the company is cited in a criminal complaint, they'll have to withdraw his lease for public relations reasons.

So Plunkett's attorneys are going to court Sept. 6 in Norwalk to seek an injunction preventing the filing of the criminal action.

According to Mayor Mark Hannaford, some residents of the area have complained to the city about the pasture.

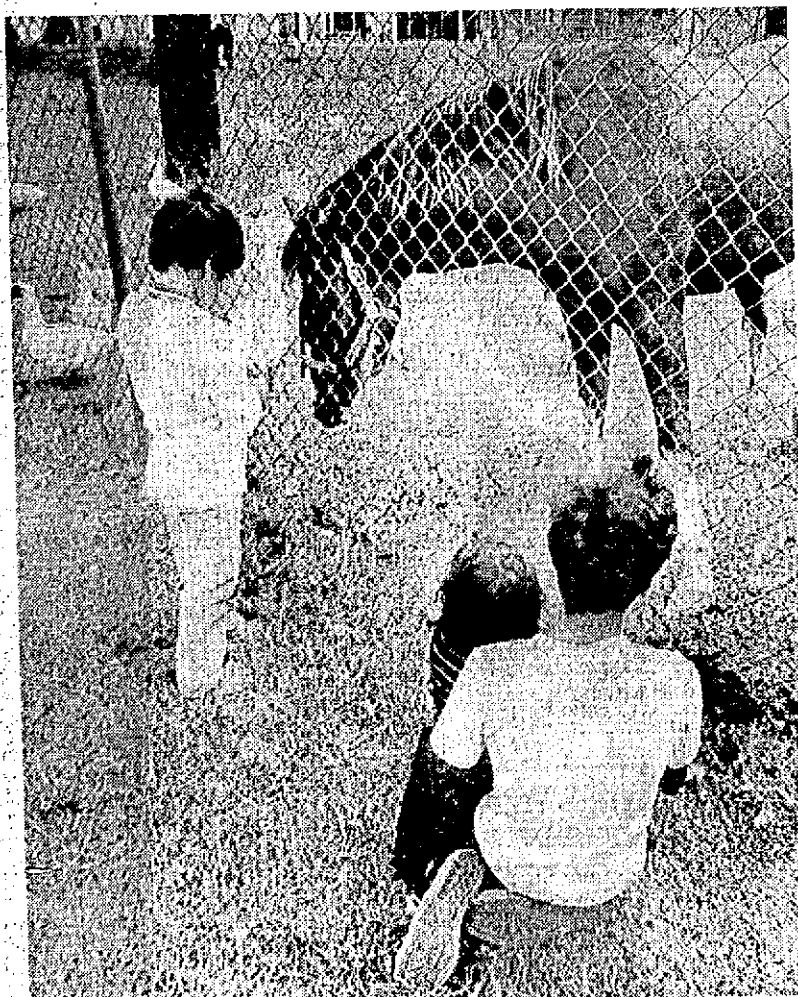

But not everyone in the neighborhood dislikes the animals and the greenery.

Last week a photographer happened by and found three youngsters feeding grain to the ducks and communing with a horse at the pasture fence.

"We like to come over here a lot," said Tony Gillespie, 13, of 6100 Eastbrook Ave. He and his little sister Mary Edith Risko, 18 months, and cousin Mark Aliano, 5, are delighted with the animals. And so is Mrs. Mary Lou Risko.

"I'M GLAD it's here for the kids. And I've talked to some of the people who live right here, so they'd have the most reason to object. They tell me they like it too," said the mother.

Whether the pasture will endure is anyone's guess, but for the time being you sure can't call Lakewood a one-horse town.

PLUNKETT'S PASTURE in Lakewood is the magnet attracting visitors Mark Aliano, 5, and cousins Mary Edith Risko, 18 months, and Tony Gillespie, 13.

Treatment selection

Radiation therapy aided by computer

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A computer, a Xerox Telecopier and an ordinary telephone are assisting doctors at St. Mary's Hospital of Long Beach in the selection of the best treatment plans for cancer patients requiring complicated radiation therapy.

The computer is based at County-USC Medical Center and has been programmed for St. Mary's cobalt unit—a device used to treat deep-seated tumors by radiation.

The computer-assisted program provides fast, accurate multiple-treatment plans. Physicians then choose those methods which will expose malignant tumors to maximum doses of radiation with the least possible radiation exposure to other tissue.

DR. ARTHUR G. LITMAN, chief of St. Mary's radiation therapy division, says this about the new program:

"The program makes routine those calculations which previously were impractical due to the time lag and expense of manually determining dose patterns with a slide rule."

Medical information is transmitted by Telecopier and telephoned to County-USC Medical Center for analysis. Dose patterns are calculated and returned to Long Beach the same day.

Here's how the system works:

In complicated cases, a patient's body contour is determined in the following manner: a radiation therapy technologist employs a flexible lead wire to outline the area of the body to be treated. Using the wire configuration as a guide, the technologist prepares a two-dimensional diagram of body measurements on paper.

Then, patient information plus a summary of a proposed treatment plan drafted by a St. Mary's radiotherapist are transmitted along with the contour image to County-USC Medical Center.

A telephone is placed in a cradle on a Telecopier unit at St. Mary's. An electronic stylus scans patient information and creates electronic impulses which are moved by telephone line to USC.

An identical device at County-USC Medical Center receives the impulses and transcribes a printout.

At USC, Gerald Carbone, a physicist and radiation therapy associate, uses a special pen to place contour information into the computer.

THE COMPUTER calculates radiation dose patterns for several possible treatment situations—situations with variations in beam patterns.

Findings are returned to St. Mary's via telephone and Telecopier.

Dr. F. W. George III, director of radiation therapy at the Medical Center, says the program was developed as part of the community outreach program of the USC Cancer Center. Cooperating are the radiation therapy division of the Medical Center and the USC school of medicine.

Initial funding for the study was provided by the National Cancer Institute, part of the National Institutes of Health.

Aim of the joint effort is to make available facilities of the Medical Center to cancer workers in the community to upgrade the quality of patient care in the Greater Los Angeles area, Dr. George says.

ST. MARY'S and Hospital of the Good Samaritan Medical Center in Los Angeles were selected as the facilities for the study because of their high standards of radiotherapy, Dr. George says. Another consideration was the willingness of the staffs of the two hospitals to cooperate on details necessary in setting up a pilot program.

Eventually the program will be offered to other strategically located hospitals in the area, Dr. George discloses.

Plans are also being shaped to use the computer to store and retrieve data about tumors, to provide a countywide information pool about cancer.

Will Rufus be up to scruff?

By BOB SANDERS
Staff Writer

Talk about challenges. Rufus has a lion's share.

Rufus has come to Lion Country Safari from the Kansas City municipal zoo to pick up where the late and legendary Frasier left off as the Don Juan of Liondom. That's a tall order. But then Frasier's reputation, like Rome, wasn't built in a day.

Frasier wandered into Lion Country Safari about a year and a half ago from a bedraggled Mexican circus and took over a proud pride of young lionesses.

Park officials said the females had rejected, rather forcefully, earlier efforts to mate them with younger lions.

They really went for Frasier, 35 cubs worth.

Rufus has youth on his side. He's 15, five years younger than Frasier was at his death.

The lionesses, however, will determine if youth is to be served.

In the footsteps of Kirk Douglas

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Kirk Douglas marches through movies in seven league boots, leaving an impossible set of footsteps for son Michael to follow.

But Mike has started in four movies: "Hail, Hero," "Adam at 6 A.M.," "Summerfree" and currently the Disney hit, "Napoleon and Samantha."

AT AGE 27 Mike's career cannot be compared with that of his father. Yet he has beat old dad to one show business milestone—a weekly television series.

Beginning this fall Mike will co-star with Karl Malden in "The Streets of San Francisco," the handsome young man will play a handsome young cop.

Douglas was having lunch in Warner Bros. Studio commissary. He looked uncomfortable in a suit and necktie, obviously part of a wardrobe. He has no dimple in his chin, nor does he have his father's fierce eyes. But his jaw is broader, as is his brow.

THAT Mike is immersed in television does not mean he has abandoned movies, or even that he prefers the tube to the screen.

"I wanted to work," he explained, "and I was getting frustrated waiting for so-called right parts to come along. There is no theater to speak of anymore. So the only answer was television."

"I'd had four other television offers before I accepted this one."

"With Quinn Martin producing, Malden as a co-star and 90 per cent of our sequences shot in San Francisco it was a difficult thing to pass up."

OUTWARDLY young Douglas gives the appearance of contentment. A little probing makes it obvious he would rather be fighting the movie dragons as his father is doing.

"I don't know if this series will hurt my opportunities for pictures in the future," he said thoughtfully. "For the time being it

KIRK DOUGLAS
In Seven League Boots

MICHAEL DOUGLAS
Tops His Dad on One Thing

will provide me with money, experience and maybe more alternatives. Eventually I want to produce and direct as well as act. Television is broadening my interest in these things."

Actually, Mike would prefer to live under the old studio star system—as his father did for a time. The studio paid its actors every week, grooming them for stardom, choosing properties tailored to their talent.

"It's hard for me to work up much sympathy for people who complained about long-term studio contracts in the old days," he said. "At least they had the security of working."

"TODAY there isn't a more precarious occupation in the world than acting. You're constantly reminded it's a business, not an art, by the number of people who want a percentage of your salary."

"I'm not thinking about stardom, just acting. But the business aspects overwhelm you. Advisers tell you that it's necessary to deal from a position of power."

"Now what the heck do they mean by that?"

Michael should ask his father. Kirk Douglas knows all about such matters. He has mastered them and survived.

Bacharach, David no Gilbert-Sullivan replay

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — At first blush, Burt Bacharach and Hal David might seem to be a replay of the famed musical team of Gilbert and Sullivan, who made marvelous operettas but frequently didn't speak to each other.

After all, Bacharach and David live a continent apart; each has his own circle of friends. Bacharach, who writes the music, is much more visible. He stars in television specials, concerts and the news columns.

DOES THIS bother David?

"Not at all — Burt deserves all the approval he gets," says the lyric writer. "He has a great talent."

"I can't complain. I've got a good life. The fact is that I am not an entertainer. I tried it once, at an ASCAP benefit at the New York Philharmonic, which is not a bad place to start. I got stoned before the performance and stoned afterward, and I'm not sure it helped."

If I were offered the chance to be an instant celebrity, I might take a shot at it. But I'm perfectly content with my life as it is."

His reaction is typical of the quiet, self-effacing

David, of whom his partner has said, "When Hal writes that 'what the world needs now is love,' he means it."

BACHARACH and his actress wife Angie Dickinson live in a showcase house in Bel-Air. David and his wife live in Roslyn, N.Y.

"We've always worked the same way," David explained. "I come out here for three weeks and we work at his house. Or Burt comes to New York and we work at his apartment."

"The system works well. The separation keeps our outlooks fresh. We see little of each other between writing sessions, and that's to the good. We're not like Rodgers and Hammerstein, who worked separately. Burt and I work together, seven hours a day. If we spent more time with each other socially, we'd have less to bounce off each other."

Their biggest project so far is the score for "Last Horizon," the musical remake now being filmed by Ross Hunter for Columbia. They have contributed one to three songs to movies before, including the hit, "Raindrops Keep Falling On My Head," but never a complete score.

IN THE CASE of "Lost Horizon," David generally did his work first, since the lyrics were dictated by the script needs.

"Otherwise we have no pattern of how we operate," said the lyricist.

Cargo gives clue to date of Roman galley

ISTANBUL, Turkey (U) — One day 2,000 years ago a heavily laden Roman galley left the Bosphorus and entered the Black Sea. A strong north wind was blowing, and the ship's captain tried to make the little port of Artane for refuge. Only 300 yards from safety, disaster struck and the ship sank in 20 feet of water. It stayed on the sandy bottom until an amateur diver found it in August.

Metin Degirmenci, a young Turkish businessman, was skindiving near the Black Sea beach resort of Site, the modern name for Artane, when he came across the wreck. The Archeological Institute sent a team to investigate.

Part of the cargo has been hauled ashore, and some of it now is in the Archeological Museum.

THE Artane wreck was carrying marble statues and building blocks for some provincial Black Sea town.

Dr. Nezir Firatli, of the Archeological Institute, says it is probably the first ship of the Roman period ever discovered with such a cargo.

The galley, propelled by sail and oar, was carrying Ionic columns, rectangular blocks, a sarcophagus or marble coffin, and at least two statues in an unfinished state. Fourteen pieces have been recovered.

The biggest piece, a statue of a Roman emperor, weighed 14 tons and stood 15 feet high. A smaller statue was of a woman.

Dr. Nursin Askari, a colleague, said she hoped the date of the wreck could be worked out from the rough shape of the woman's coiffure.

Pope Paul travels to Venice to pray at tomb of St. Mark

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI, an evangelist who has visited five continents as pontiff, will travel to Venice Sept. 16 to pray at the tomb of St. Mark the Evangelist.

The Vatican announced Friday that the pontiff will spend several hours in Venice, then continue on a long-predicted visit to the 18th Italian Eucharistic Congress at Udine in northeastern Italy. He will return to Rome the same night.

Vatican sources said a new document on the eucharist has been sent to the world's bishops and will be released to coincide with the Udine congress. The document contains several reforms that have been tried experimentally

Africa immigrants trouble Sicilians

PALERMO, Sicily (U) — For years Sicilians have been emigrating by the thousands to work in mainland Italy or abroad. Now they have their own immigration problem, posed by an influx of people from Africa.

The immigrants are nearly all from such countries as Morocco and Tunisia. Some have light skins, others are black. They are referred to collectively as "the Africans" or the "Tunisians".

Since March, police have been sending back home an estimated 200 a month.

There have been complaints that Sicilians are mistreating the Africans, much as Italian workers complain that they are treated in Switzerland or Germany, for example.

IN SOME cafes at Mazara del Vallo, a fishing port, the Africans get coffee and drinks in paper cups "to avoid contagion." People there claim "the Tunisians" carry germs.

There are some 1,000 North Africans in Ma-

The lady's yellowing roils Bath

LONDON (UPI) — They're particular about things in Bath.

Bath is an ancient Roman spa town which was turned into one of the world's most beautiful examples of 18th century town planning. Officials want to keep it that way.

Which explains why the issue of Miss Amabel Wellesley-Colley's window blind case wound up Thursday on the Whitehall desk of Peter Walker, the secretary of state for the environment, no less.

He ruled in her favor.

Miss Wellesley-Colley, a descendant of the Duke of Wellington, put up yellow window blinds and painted her front door yellow in the semi-sacred precincts of the Royal Crescent, one of the Bath's main show places.

An inspector told her last year the blatant yellow would have to go. She refused. The Bath city council formally ordered her to remove the colored objects. She appealed. A public inquiry was held.

That was in February. By then, an inspector testified, the yellow front door had faded to such "an innocuous shade" that it need not be changed. But the yellow blinds had to go.

Miss Wellesley-Colley appealed again, this time to Walker. He ruled Thursday that he agreed about the door, but said he had no power to have such interior furnishing as blinds removed. He upheld the appeal.

"This has cost me 700 pounds ($1,450)," Miss Wellesley-Colley said Thursday.

Refugee sentenced in 'kidnap'

BOCHUM, Germany (UPI) — A Romanian refugee nurse who kidnapped two children and took them to Romania in order to smuggle her own children out to the West received a one-year suspended jail sentence Friday.

"Who could have stopped this woman?" Judge Hans Leichter said in explaining his verdict.

The red-haired nurse, Helene Lazarescu, 26, faced charges of kidnapping, deprivation of freedom and complicity in falsification of documents as a result of her skillfully executed flouting of Communist travel restrictions.

The sentence was mild because even state prosecutor Siegfried Schlee blamed the Romanian state for imposing laws "which conflict with international human rights."

Headed seminary for 21 years Dr. Anderson returns to local pulpit as interim minister

Twenty-two years after leaving Long Beach's historic First Congregational Church to assume the presidency of the Pacific School of Religion at Berkeley, Rev. Dr. Stuart LeRoy Anderson returns as interim minister, and will preach his first sermon in that capacity Sunday.

Dr. Anderson resigned from the presidency last November, and was appointed chancellor of the seminary, which gives him more time for other pursuits. He is living in Long Beach with his wife Raezella, who attained prominence in the Bay Area as a reviewer.

The pulpit vacancy occurs at the "Third and Cedar" church because of the resignation of Rev. Dr. Duane L. Day in July. Dr. Day was pastor for four years, during which time the church successfully initiated programs linking it more firmly in Christian mission to the community around it, and climaxed by the start of work on Plymouth West, a low-income apartment project for seniors.

In his letter to the congregation, Dr. Day said: "Now, after long and hard thought, I have determined it is time for this church to secure new ministerial national. It is now officially supported by the United Church of Christ (which includes the Congregationalists), the United Methodist Church and the Christian Church-Disciples of Christ.

During his two decades of leadership at the Berkeley institution, it doubled its enrollment, increased its assets from $1,160,000 to $2,600,000, and its endowment funds from $387,000 to $9,300,000. Its scholarship program was widely expanded.

Dr. Anderson played a prominent role in the formation of the United Church of Christ in 1961; the first successful merger of major Protestant groups in the U.S. He was an official Protestant observer of the final session of the Vatican Council in 1965.

Mrs. Anderson, who served as president of the Municipal Recreation Commission before moving to Berkeley, turned over all honorariums for book reviewing for Bay Area book clubs to the Pacific School of Religion scholarship fund.

Dr. Anderson's topic at the 10 a.m. service Sunday will be "Faith for a Time of Turmoil." He will then begin a three-part series under the title: "Recycling Old Affirmations," with the individual sermon topics: "Jesus Saves," "God Cares" and "Christ Judges."

'Racketeer' Marjoe to be pitied, says L.B. Pentecostal minister

By LES RODNEY

Former Pentecostal child evangelist Marjoe Gortner, who has repudiated his past in a controversial motion picture, is to be pitied, says a leading Long Beach Pentecostal minister.

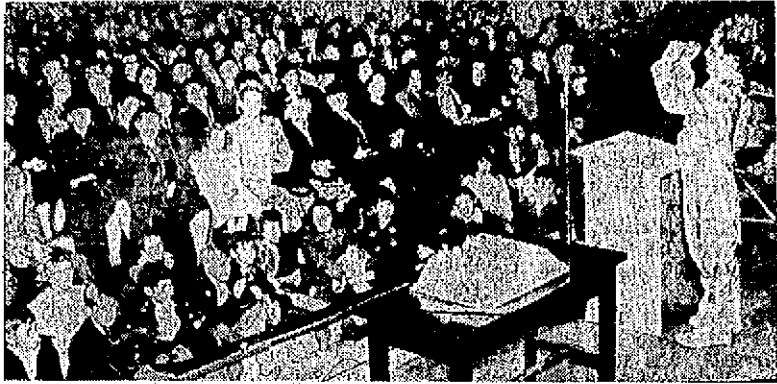

"There are counterfeits in every realm of life," commented Rev. Wesley P. Steelberg in a phone conversation this week. "Marjoe by his own admission never had a genuine experience with God. He was in it as a racketeer."

Steelberg, pastor of the thriving Christian Life Church at 3400 Pacific Ave., formerly First Assembly of God in its prior location at 10th Street and Linden Avenue, said he had not yet seen the film "Marjoe," which stars the former Long Beach child preacher who gained national notoriety by officiating at a wedding here when only 4 years old. Marjoe, now 28, plays himself in the film, which is currently in a first run Westwood theater.

Steelberg said, "only to be pitied," another high; it provides life full of harmony and beauty, abundant life. And not all evangelists are Marjoe Gortners. There is a 'ring of truth' about committed ministers of the gospel that the film's phony evangelist never attains."

Pastor Steelberg, noting the increase of Pentecostal influence in the major denominations, observed that "within this, some are experiencing minority excesses which we long ago encountered and ruled out."

The church which he pastors, he reported, has doubled its attendance since moving from its old quarters last October into the imaginative new edifice near the juncture of the San Diego and Long Beach freeways.

nomination which grew out of the spiritual revivals of the early 1900s, is by far the largest and most successful of the Pentecostal sects in this country. It has been successful in largely shedding an unfavorable early image among other Christians, though maintaining its central thrust of spontaneity and the gifts of the Holy Spirit. Its freer mode of worship has proven attractive to many young people, including some who come under the loose category of "Jesus People." Pentecostal influence within the older denominations has reportedly increased over the past few years, though the actual impact is difficult to measure. The Assemblies have been at the center of much of the strong Protestant gains in Latin America in the past decade, stressing indigenous flavor and leadership.

Marjoe was not ordained by the Assemblies of God. However, he came from an Assemblies family heritage, and called himself a Pentecostal.

"Marjoe's grandfather," related Pastor Steelberg, "was J. Narver Gortner, a Godly man. He was a pastor in Oakland and a noted Bible scholar. I knew his son Vernon fairly well, that's Marjoe's father. I was just a little boy myself, but saw him in the 1930s, and occasionally later. It is Steelberg's understanding that Marjoe's parents—both were ordained ministers—were not licensed to preach at Assemblies of God ministers after the early 1940s.

"In Pentecostal circles," Rev. Steelberg said, "there are some fringe areas where excesses can be found. Non-scriptural areas. It was in those fringe areas that this Marjoe story happened."

Marjoe, as a child of 4 and 5, preached to packed houses at the Masonic Temple in Long Beach (now Morgan Hall), then branched into a national evangelist and gradually faded from prominence as he entered the gawky teens.

Many Long Beach-neighborhood residents remember him as a curly-headed tot in a velvet suit, who preached without faltering and who played the drums, tambourine and saxophone. His preaching manner was emotional and intensely solemn. He attacked Hopalong Cassidy, then popular, as being bad for children. "They should be hopping along to Jesus," little Marjoe proclaimed. After he performed the famed marriage ceremony in 1949, the state law was changed to require marriage officiants to be of legal age.

Marjoe's parents claimed that the child's sermons were spontaneous and that they never knew what he would say. In the film, Marjoe now says that during those years, he was drilled relentlessly in what to say, and that when his attention wandered, his mother would force him back to learning the sermons by smothering him with a pillow or sticking his head under water. He also says his mother would signal him while he was preaching, calling out "praise Jesus" when he was speaking too slow, and "glory hallelujah" when too fast. She would also signal the psychological moment for the offering. Marjoe says he estimates he made $3 million for his parents, who never set up any trust fund for him.

"I can't think of a time that I ever believed in God or thought it was a miracle of God that I preached," Marjoe now says. "I just knew I could do it well."

Says Pastor Steelberg: "This type of thing has happened in all denominations. I really feel sorry for the man. Apparently he was the victim of parents who were very unwise. If what has been said is true, they need to have their heads examined. If Marjoe never was given the opportunity to know a genuine relationship with God, I am really sorry for him. He was a victim."

This, the pastor added, is in essence what has been stated in reaction to the Marjoe film by the head of the Assemblies of God, Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Zimmerman.

Steelberg said he looks forward with interest to a scheduled television con-

READY FOR JEWISH HIGH HOLY DAYS

David H. Guthman practices on the Shofar (Ram's Horn) for the Jewish High Holy Days, which begin Friday at sundown. A Los Angeles attorney, he is a member of Long Beach Temple Sinai, where his father, Rabbi Sidney S. Guthman, is spiritual leader. The young Guthman, who obtained this shofar in the Holy Land, will sound a series of symbolic calls during the services, which begin at the Elks Club.

Catholic Congress on Word Scriptural preaching linked to conservation

A return to scriptural preaching in the Roman Catholic Church can provide mankind the "inner light and strength" it needs to respond creatively and responsibly to the ecological crises coming in the 1970s, according to a biblical scholar.

Rev. James Reese, O.S.F.S., book review editor of "Catholic Review Quarterly," official organ of the Catholic Biblical Association (which promotes biblical scholarships), made this observation in connection with the National Congress on the Word of God, which begins Tuesday in Washington, D.C.

Asked how Scripture preaching could speak to these crises, Father Reese (author of "Hellenistic Influence on the Book of Wisdom," said solidly based biblical preaching would result in an "ongoing conversion of mankind to a greater respect for God's creation, one another as God's children, and ourselves as destined for friendship with God."

Scripture preaching would bring a new force into action, much as (Ralph) Nader and Common Cause have done; it would mobilize the human resources of mankind."

"God who is Savior is also Creator," he continued. "Christians have a real responsibility toward God's creation. He is our common Father; therefore, we don't destroy the gifts He has given to all."

In pre-Vatican II days, sermons and homilies in the Church tended to be based more on the catechism than the Scriptures and as such were dogmatic and moralistic, the priest noted. Since Vatican II has encouraged a return to a greater emphasis of the Scripture in the Mass by revising and increasing the Bible readings during the liturgy, there has been a growing interest in the Church at large in the role of Scripture in its life.

Confident living
Retirement—'best is yet to come'

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

"It's quite a problem," a couple in their 60s told me recently. "We want to do the right thing."

"Yes," I replied, "retirement can be quite an adjustment. But if it is met with sound and imaginative planning, the later span of life can be as meaningful as any other."

They told me of their plans to invest in a small house in an adult retirement community where life would be easier for them. The house they lived in for 25 years was too large as their children had married and now had homes of their own. And with the husband's retirement there was a reduction in income, so the condominium seemed the best solution.

"The only thing that bothers me," said the wife, "is that I'm not ready to sit in a rocking chair and talk about my aches and pains. There are so many things I want to do."

"Then by all means do them," I encouraged her. "Fulfillment in old age, like fulfillment in any other phase of life, depends upon you. You have always had an interest in the life around you, so continue to grow the rest of your life."

"Yes," replied her positive-thinking husband. "I've tried to tell her the best is yet to come."

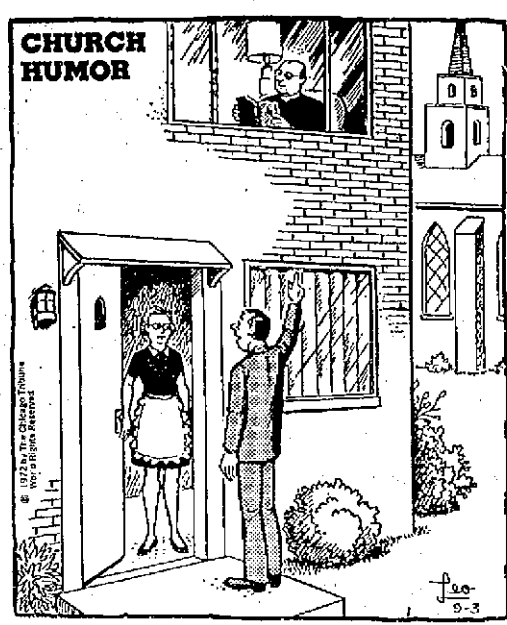

"I just hate to make the break," she said reluctantly. "We've had such good years here with our family and I love this old house. I just hope all those people in the adult community aren't old!" she added.

I chuckled to myself at the way Mrs. Brown used the word "old." It's strange the stereotyped attitudes people have about older age. When something is old, it isn't necessarily decrepit and useless. I'm reminded of a reporter who turned in a story to the local paper about a prize-winning patchwork quilt made by an 82-year-old spinster. "She whiled away her lonely days in bed making patchwork quilts," he wrote.

Newspaper article in hand, the furious spinster stormed the news office and said, hotly, "I'm not lonely. I have lots of friends. And I'm not bed-ridden. I walk a mile every day to keep in shape and even do the gardening! While away my days indeed!" she retorted.

The old gal wasn't going to accept that judgment, and all the more power to her! Never let yourself think you are feeble and crotchety, and you'll never get that way. I remember a lifelong friend of my family who ran a huge hotel in Chicago until he was 85 and then ruefully gave it up. He retired to the California desert and died in six months. When he was about 83, I was a guest at his hotel and he was enthusiastically showing me all around the hotel kitchens and everything.

"But you misunderstand! I want to speak to that man upstairs."

Admirably I asked, "Frank, how old are you?"

He answered, "Isn't your room okay? Isn't the food satisfactory? Have you any complaints about the service here?"

"No, of course not," I said, "everything is fine."

"I guess you think I'm too old to be running this place." Then he said, "Let me tell you something, son," (I liked that) "live your life and forget your age."

One thing for sure, he had forgotten his age and was doing a terrific job. And besides he was healthy and happy, until the end when, sad to say, he remembered his age and began to think old thoughts doing nothing on the California desert. The idea is never to let yourself be motivated by an old-age complex.

There are lots of things to do in life no matter how old you are. Getting back to the couple I was talking about earlier, the husband, a retired lawyer, now gives legal advice to anyone who needs it for a minimal fee, and finds great satisfaction in still being able to practice his profession and helping others. And he has a special friend with whom he plays chess, a game he has been wanting to learn for years.

His wife has taken up bowling (what was that about aches and pains?), does volunteer work in the local hospital and is secretary of the women's club in their new-found church. "My husband was right," she said cheerfully, "the best is yet to come!"

Humanizing man theme

Three thousand biblical scholars from all over the world will examine the role of religion in a "dehumanized age" during a conference in Los Angeles beginning today.

The scholars, representing nearly all the intellectual bodies concerned with religion, will meet for five days for the first international Congress of Learned Societies in the Field of Religion.

The scholars will hear a dozen major addresses and 450 research papers, many on religious topics, but others on women's lib, religion in an industrialized society and race relations.

"The real objective of religion — any religion — has always been the humanizing of man," Dr. Robinson said in an interview, "and unless we can deal away the verbiage and get with it, religious faith is going to slough off, to the detriment of civilization."

Religion's emphasis has tended to be on the "next life," Dr. Robinson said, whereas the conference will emphasize that "religion is intended to grapple instead with this life," with such problems as the secularization of society and what Dr. Robinson

DICK ANTHONY
IN L.B. CONCERT

Dick Anthony, singer and musical director of the nationwide TV program "Day of Discovery," will present a concert Sunday, 6 p.m., in First Baptist Church of Lakewood, 5335 Arbor Road, Long Beach. Anthony, former minister of music at the local church, has recorded award-winning albums as soloist, duet artist with Bill Pearce, and as orchestra-said is the inability of "Christianization" and education to humanize man.

"We had assumed that humanization would come about with Christianization and education," he said, "But that has not been the case. As the most civilized, we are still the greatest barbarians. With technology and civilization we become more inhuman and we see no way to get over it."

Local couple joins crusade

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gleason of Long Beach have joined the staff of Campus Crusade for Christ International and will begin work with the athletic ministry later this month.

Jim, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gleason of Downey, and Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lurker of Westminster, have just completed eight weeks of training at Arrowhead Springs, the organization's headquarters.

Jim will be business manager of Athletics in Action basketball team, which will compete with major college teams. The team is based in Phoenix. His wife will set up neighborhood women's meetings and work in the campus ministry. They are currently available for speaking.

COLLEGE HEAD
AT TRUETT

Dr. James R. Staples, president of California Baptist College, will be guest preacher Sunday at the 10:45 a.m. and 7 p.m. services in Truett Memorial Southern Baptist Church, 3435 San Anselmo Ave. He was both a Baptist leader and community leader in Arizona before coming to the Riverside college in 1970.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UMI) — Warnings that United Methodist evangelicals will support their own missionaries, ministerial training, and literature and use "economic boycott" were warmly applauded here. However, expressions of hope for the future and disclaimers of separation also occurred frequently at the third convocation sponsored by United Methodists for Evangelical Christianity.

People who have not been taught in the Word are likely to pick out any church to attend.
Whether or not they enjoy the services and return again will depend on such things as conveniences, friendliness and the attractiveness of the speaker. What his theology is, or what he may say or leave unsaid will be of small consequence to them.
Conversely, people who have been taught in the Word will evaluate the services first on the basis of the knowledge the speaker has of the Word, how he presents the Word and whether or not the services center around evangelism and solid doctrine. Friendliness and conveniences are important to them, too, but when Bible students take time to attend church, they are looking for something that cannot be found anywhere else in the world — food and fellowship in and around the Word of God with other Christians.

With either Nixon or McGovern, he says

'U.S. economy excellent, won't change'

The outlook for the U.S. economy is excellent and "won't" change one bit whether Nixon or McGovern sleeps in the White House on Jan. 20," a prominent Western securities industry executive says.

"We are heading into a fantastic year, with wages and prices relatively stable, the availability of money and labor relatively easy and profits soaring," George Sarlo, first vice president and director of research of Mitchum, Jones & Templeton Inc., asserted.

Addressing a meeting of civic and community leaders at town hall in the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles this week, Sarlo said, "Things look peachy indeed for Mr. Nixon on the economic front at the present."

But, Sarlo added, "the economic situation will not be altered one bit for 1973" if Sen. George McGovern wins the presidency. "The momentum and strength are too strong to be changed by any politician," he asserted.

Speaking on "An Investment Strategy for McGovern

Fans and Enemies," Sarlo said the 1973 outlook is favorable in most areas of consumer spending, construction, capital spending and government expenditures.

"Thus, almost all engines will be full steam ahead and it will matter little who is at the helm," Sarlo said.

Should Sen. McGovern be elected president, "clearly the stock market's reaction would be panicky selling on Nov. 8," Sarlo asserted.

"But I believe this panic will be short-lived and may turn out to be a wonderful buying opportunity."

The Mitchum, Jones research executive said Sen. McGovern's nomination "is a definite symptom of some major re-evaluation of national priorities which has been brewing on the campuses for the past decade and is now beginning to assert itself in the economic marketplace and in the political arena as well."

Investors who "detect and admit to these new trends will have an opportunity to reap huge investment returns from them," Sarlo said.

As examples, Sarlo cited the concern for ecology, mounting concern and probably increasing spending for improved education, increasing attention to the crime problem, consumerism and the need for better housing.

All of these trends offer attractive investment opportunities "regardless of the risks presented by the results of the upcoming election," Sarlo asserted.

On the other hand, Sarlo said, the outlook for the defense industry will be significantly dimmer in the event of a McGovern victory than it will if President Nixon is reelected.

Noting that Sen. McGovern proposes to cut the Pentagon's budget by up to $30 billion annually within a few years, Sarlo described this proposal as "drastic" and said a McGovern victory would "obviously put military supplier stocks under a cloud."

But he added that while it is the President who draws up the defense budget, "it is Congress who determines how much money should be authorized. Thus, whatever cutbacks McGovern might propose, he will have to convince Congress that these cuts are appropriate."

Regardless of who is elected in November, Sarlo said, in 1973 "we will still have some of the persisting problems of 1972 America with us."

As examples he listed economic controls, which "are introducing artificial dislocations into the economy," and the "monopolistic power of big unions."

Nixon or McGovern, the victor 'must tackle jobless problem'

NEW YORK (AP)—Regardless of who wins the presidential election, the issue of unemployment must of necessity be tackled all over again on an attempt to separate fantasy from reality.

Year after year, thousands of scholars, government officials and others spend millions of dollars trying to figure out how to maintain the labor force at maximum employment in a stable economy.

In mockery of their efforts, not only do the old questions seem to grow more involved, but the new ones seem so basic as to cast doubts on what previously was accepted as truth.

Still unanswered, for example, are these basic questions:

—Is it really possible, considering the political context in which the jobless question invariably is examined, to maintain full employment simultaneously with a stable economy?

—What constitutes full employment? Is it four per cent unemployed, as we now claim? Or should it be nearer three per cent, as some officials claimed during the Johnson administration?

—Who is to be regarded as unemployed?

The federal government answers the final question by counting as jobless all those who attempted to find jobs during the month previous to its survey, or who were waiting to report for work or who were temporarily laid off.

But there is little unanimity about that definition. Quite the contrary. And while disagreement grows, so also grow the jobless-related problems of high taxes, urban decay, discord . . .

To illustrate the polarity of thinking, consider these two viewpoints, each widely held and easily recognizable, about the same situation.

First, that of two New York professors, William Abraham and A. J. Jaffee, who claim that the jobless figures released each month by the government fail to include all those who are really seeking jobs.

The federal statistics, they say, fail to count the "inactive unemployed" or "discouraged worker," who they claim is eligible for work but has ceased to actively seek it because of earlier failures.

By their accounting, unemployment in the United States is more than a full percentage point higher than the official figure, which in recent months has been about 5.5 per cent of the labor force.

Now consider the view of the National Federation of Independent Business, which claims an active membership of more than 300,000 small- and medium-size businessmen.

The federation claims that, based on continuing surveys among its members, there is reason to believe that the widely quoted jobless figures overstate the extent of the problem.

It quotes the owner of a Mississippi cleaning plant as writing:

"As the potential employer of as many as 20 people can you see how I feel when I go for months without one single application for work?"

"I can call the State Employment Office and the odds are about 10 to 1 that they will not send anyone to apply for the job. Most people who can even be contacted . . . will tell us they have no experience but will not take the job as it might interfere with their welfare . . ."

And it quotes an Ohio business owner as saying, "The percentage of unemployment published is a real joke. We have no luck finding dependable chauffeurs at $3.75 an hour, guaranteed 40 hours and 52 weeks of work."

Analyst sees upward trend

NEW YORK (AP)—While the prime interest rate currently is moving upward, Walston & Co. Inc. sees no return to the restrictive credit conditions of 1970 and 1971.

Harry W. Laubscher, senior vice president and director of research, writing in the firm's latest quarterly report, "A View of the Investment Environment," said, "We anticipate that the prime rate could approach the 5.75 per cent level by year end," but added it should not reach any more than the 6.25 to 6.50 per cent range by mid-1973.

The New York Stock Exchange member firm continues to be optimistic about the outlook for the stock market and believes its basic trend "will remain in concert with the broad upward economic trend . . ."

The Walston & Co. Inc. report, while viewing future market action as favorable in general, suggested continued selectivity in stock purchases and listed 16 groups as "attractive" industries.

They are: agricultural equipment, apparel, broadcasting, selected beverages, chemicals, finance companies, selected electronics, life insurance, selected machinery, natural gas, oils, pulp & paper, railroad equipment, retail trade, metals (especially steels) and utilities.

A sherry before lunch?

American tradition bans spirits on job

By MARYLIN BENDER
New York Times Service

NEW YORK — Was it Cardinal Spellman, Winston Churchill or someone else who precipitated a crisis at the Chase Manhattan Bank by calling for a sherry before lunch in the chairman's dining room?

The story keeps cropping up like a chain letter with a changing message. In fact, it was Sir Anthony Eden who once asked for post-prandial cognac at Chase headquarters — whereupon a waiter was dispatched 60 stories downward to fetch some from a store on Lower Broadway. The tale is repeated by those who lament the ambivalence of American business and financial institutions toward the consumption of alcoholic beverages in executive dining rooms. It amuses foreign businessmen and vexes many Yanks, returning from international tours of duty, who have become accustomed to the European merchant banking way of doing business at lunch by proceeding from aperitif to cigar via wine and cognac.

On this side of the Atlantic some do, some don't, some positively and some with equivocation.

AMERICAN TRADITION — which amateur business sociologists trace to the Puritan ethic, Prohibition and the touchy problem of executive alcoholism — banned spirits on business premises during working hours. Ironically, the higher one rose in the pecking order the more likely he was to be trapped in nonalcoholic lunches in the senior management dining room.

Commercial banks were generally the stalwart abstainers, while investment bankers tended to rival their overseas cousins in midday dining with spirits.

Now some commercial banks have loosened up. The Chemical Bank in New York and the Bank of America in San Francisco have bar facilities in or near the senior management dining room. And the First Philadelphia Corporation serves sherry in its Philadelphia headquarters.

"The banks found a lot of their customers hesitated to go to lunch unless they really needed money," said Malcolm S. Forbes, the publisher. "Being invited to lunch at a bank isn't exactly Leavenworth, but it's not a real blast."

Three years ago the publisher had a wine cellar built at Forbes Magazine on lower Fifth Avenue for the benefit of captains of industry who are queUED at lunch (with cocktails and wine) by him and his editors.

IF A GUEST is a known connoisseur, he is presented with one of the treasures from the cellar such as a 1929 Chateau Haut-Brion.

"We make him promise not to tell us if it's vinegar," Forbes disclosed. "We haven't opened any ourselves because they cost too much."

Nevertheless, the non-imbibers are still in distinguished company. There's absolutely not a drop to drink at lunch at the First National City Bank here, the Cleveland Trust Company, Boston's State Street Bank or the Continental Bank of Chicago.

The Continental bank executives have a ready excuse for complaining guests. The land on which the bank stands belongs to Northwestern University, which put an alcohol prohibition clause in the lease.

"The Chase bank still observes a liquor ban in corporate headquarters, a flat attributed to George Champion, former president. The present president, Herbert Patterson, has been reported to offer a pre-lunch drink in his inner sanctum. Some Chase executives repair to the privately run Wall Street Club on the 50th floor. The need to change elevators dissuades some, however.

COCKTAILS are served in the executive dining room of the Chase branch. The Chase, First National City and the Morgan Guaranty Bank (another abstainer here) follow the custom of the country in which they operate — so alcohol is offered in their London offices, for example. The Ford Motor Company, on the other hand, will not bend, whether in London or Dearborn, Mich. International Business Machines may once have relaxed on the matter of white shirts but never on the subject of on-premises alcohol, nor does the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway whose executives lunch in the splendor of the Greenbrier Suite in Cleveland's Sheraton Cleveland Hotel adjoining their offices.

"Absolutely no liquor at lunch unless it's a civic ceremonial affair," said Howard Skidmore, a vice president of the C. & O. "Rule G, one of the operating rules of the railroad industry, forbids drinking on the job." Hays Watkins, the C. & O.'s president, is a teetotaler.

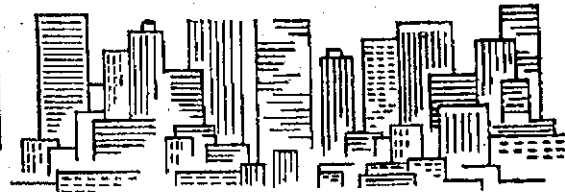

Nor does anyone drink at lunch in Republic Steel's headquarters in Cleveland — unless, a company spokesman explained, "There's a distinguished guest from foreign lands, such as a distinguished Italian industrialist, when we might serve a wine with the lunch. But otherwise never."

Such a concession for visiting Europeans is also made at Morgan Stanley & Co., one of the few New York investment banking houses that eschews the grape or grain alcohol. "J.P. drink only outside the office," said Frederick B. Whittemore, one of the directors, interpreting the longstanding policy.

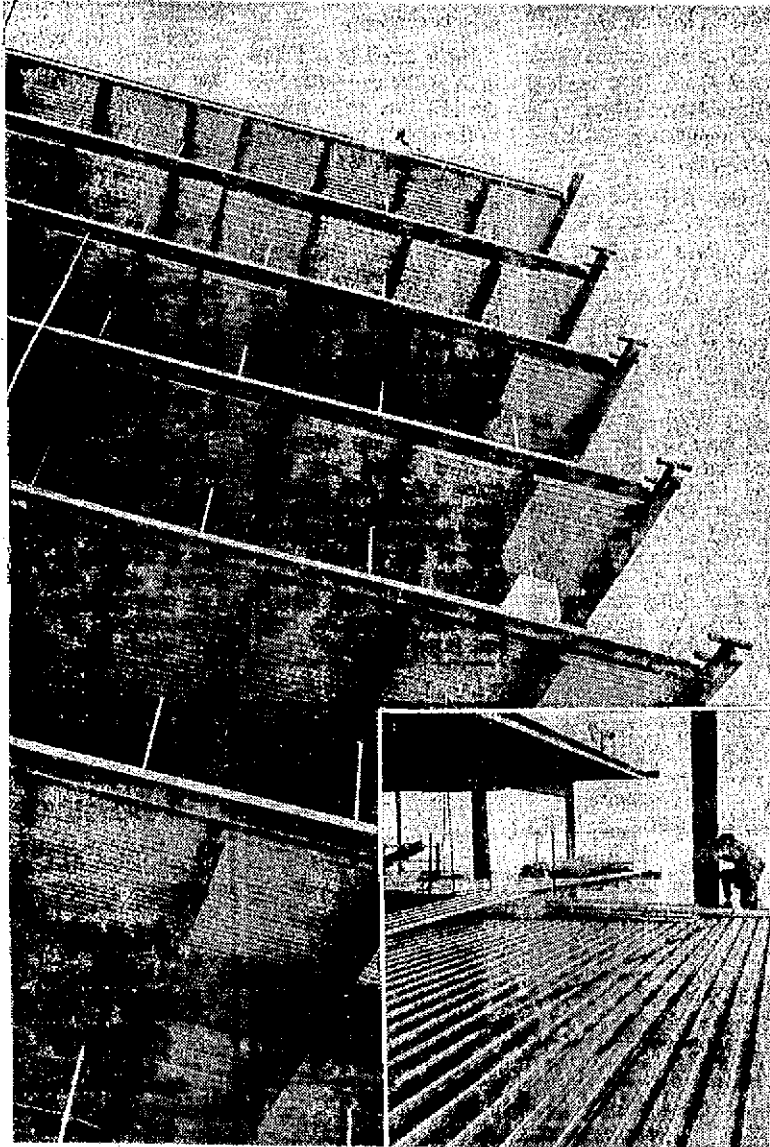

"We do have it available but we don't make it a habit. Only the day before Christmas and New Year's Eve. Or, when we have a European guest, we may give him sherry or wine."

Known as the 1045 Atlantic Professional Building, the structure will have 48 medical suites for approximately 100 doctors. It will be connected to St. Mary's Bauer Hospital, also under construction, by two passageways, one at the plaza and one at the second-floor level. Architect is Richard O. ## The lighter side

Middle age lapses...

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Among the things that begin to go amiss as a person lapses into middle age is the . . . uh . . . the . . . ah . . .

Well, I seem to have forgotten what I was going to say about that, but I think I have it written down some place . . . Yes, here it is in my shirt pocket.

What I was going to say was that as a person lapses into middle age he has trouble remembering things and must write notes to himself to jog his memory.

Strings tied to fingers and other non-verbal reminders are useless in middle age. At this stage, one's forgetfulness becomes plural — two or more things slip from the mind simultaneously.

I keep my memos in my shirt pocket. Each night as I retire, I go through them and weed out the ones I have already taken care of. These I put on the night table to be thrown away the next day.

THE OTHER MORNING I noticed a big pile of old notes on the table, indicating that I had been forgetting to discard them. So I wrote myself a reminder: "Throw away used reminders."

But before discarding the old memos, I skimmed over them to make certain I had not forgotten anything.

In doing so, I was rather impressed by the breadth and scope of the activities I had been engaged in. Apparently, I am a better rounded and more influential person than I had given myself credit for being.

"Call Judge Crater," one memo said.

Since it was in the discard pile, I must have completed the call. But now I haven't the foggiest notion as to why I was calling him or where he was at the time.

"Appoint Bliss committee," I had no trouble recognizing that one. I was organizing a committee to plan an appropriate ceremony to commemorate the 73rd anniversary of the death of Henry H. Bliss, the first American killed in a traffic accident.

In Sam Hill did I name to the committee? If any of you are members, please contact me immediately.

"Order more water wings." That I will remember. Someone had a sale on surplus waterwings left over from Billy Rose aquatic shows and from what Daniel Ellsberg claims was a 1969 attempt by Navy frogmen to survey Haiphong harbor.

I ordered 300 pairs with the intention of re-selling them as water beds for miniature schnauzers. But where did I put them?

"Sell lamb chop." A clear reference to the frozen lamb chop that I inherited from my Aunt Harriet, who passed away last spring. Lacking enough cash to pay the inheritance tax, I was forced to sell it. Used what was left to buy a new supply of memo pads.

Subcontract let

NEW YORK (UPI) — Litton Industries, Inc., has awarded a $6.3 million subcontract to Condenser Service & Engineering Co. of Hoboken, N.J., to make heat recovery boilers for the Navy's Spruance class destroyers.

L.B. drivers have high hopes Stretching out dollars to race

By ALLEN WOLFE
Staff Writer

ONTARIO—John Martin and Bob Gruntz have lived in the low rent district of auto racing for two years.

They know the pain of rebuilding a shattered Offenhauser engine with limited or non-existent funds. The 40 sleepless hours trying to prepare for a race they know they cannot win. And the numerous "greasy spoons" that pass as restaurants in their cross-country treks between races.

It's a rugged, far-from-glamorous existence—but they wouldn't have it any other way.

"You might call it an initiation," says Martin with an all-knowing smile. "Every driver—even the great ones like (Mario) Andretti and (A.J.) Foyt—had to start out that way. It makes you appreciate the things later on."

Martin, 33, has followed the USAC Championship trail for two years now, driving a four-year-old Brabham which he has highly modified himself and matched with a $35,000 Offenhauser engine. A Sports Car Club of America national champion in 1965, driving an A Production Corvette, Martin graduated to Trans-Am sedan and Formula 5,000 before obtaining his United States Auto Club license.

Gruntz, 28, holds the title of team manager, pit coordinator, bookkeeper and jack-of-all-trades. Only one other person, chief mechanic Ted Swintek, is on the payroll.

During the non-racing winter months, Martin and Gruntz oversee the operation of Automotive Technology, Inc., a high performance garage located in a stall adjacent to Reath Automotive at 3291 Cherry Ave. in Long Beach. "We replace disc brakes and give high performance tuneups on a professional level," says Gruntz. "We try to finance our racing this way, but it's tough sledding sometimes."

Although the financial rewards have been less than overwhelming, self-satisfaction has more than made up for it. Martin and his red-and-white No. 89 "Un-sponsored Special" have competed in four of the first seven USAC Championship races this season, finishing 16th in the Indianapolis 500 and 17th in the Schaefer 500 at Pocono, Pa.

Sunday, John will occupy the inside of the 10th row for the start of the third California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway, having qualified with a solid 183.870 mph performance.

Martin's achievement of having qualified for all of USAC's "Triple Crown" events borders on the incredible—particularly with the knowledge that he is trying to fight the carte blanche, big money outfits fielded by the likes of Dan Gurney and Parnelli Jones.

"After two years, we've become the biggest penny pinchers in the world," laughs Martin. "We work 30 hours a day, stretch a dollar five feet and pray a lot."

"There's a lot of satisfaction, knowing you really don't have comparable equipment, and yet finishing ahead of some of them. Of course, we'd love to have a blank check, toss a lot of money around, but it takes time before a legitimate sponsor is willing to back you." Apparently the formula is working. Early this week, Martin and Gruntz negotiated with Lodestar Enterprises of Indianapolis—an architectural and construction management firm—for sponsorship in the California 500. The "Un-sponsored Special" now has a new name—the "Lodestar Special."

Although the contract is for one race on a "look-see" basis, it's a step in the right direction.

"What we'd ultimately like to do is work out some kind of arrangement with the City of Long Beach," says Gruntz. "We could call the car the 'City of Long Beach Queen Mary Special' and get the whole town behind the effort."

"We travel all over the country and the car would get national exposure—it's an excellent means of advertising."

Inexperience big drawback at UCLA

By GARY RAUSCH
Staff Writer

If Nebraska was on UCLA's menu tonight instead of a week hence, the Bruins would start only seven seniors.

Imagine 15 juniors and sophomores clashing with the two-time defending national champion Cornhuskers. Enough to cause nightmares, what?

That's just what Pepper Rodgers is trying to avoid Pepper asked him what he thought of James.

"Daddy, I'll tell you something, answered the young Rodgers. "I'll bet you James McAllister will be one of those bubble-gum cards someday."

The head coach has been very pleased with the running back's progress this fall. "He's been hobbled with a muscle spasm and the wrist injury, but he's been very exciting in our scrimmaging."

Randy Tyler started at fullback, where either he or fellow senior Gary Campbell will open against Nebraska.

Defensively, it was Fred McNeill and Cal Peterson at the ends and Jim Bright at safety. All were sophs at the time.

Next year the same might be said about linemen Rich Gunther, Greg Norfleet and Tom Waddell and linebacker Herschel Ramsey.

Quizzed on whether the pre-season buildup for McAllister and quarterback Mark Harmon had caused any problems within the team, Pepper replied: "No because most of it has been centered around non-football things; James because of his track accomplishments and Mark because of his famous father."

"When you're in front of everyone and you don't work hard, then you'll have problems with the other players. But James and Mark are two of our leaders."

Hodgers hopes for an exact replica of Oklahoma's wishbone-T offense. "I'd like to see us average 13 yards per passing attempt and 27.4 for each completion."

"If we're passing a lot more than most wishbone teams then we're in trouble. I want the big play with huge chunks of yardage."

There's also the problem of size. Pacific-8 Skywriters, seeing USC's Trojans and the Bruins of UCLA on successive days, compared the clubs to the skyscrapers of New York against the flatlands of Nebraska.

Rodgers isn't embarrassed by his team's greenness. He knows the youngsters will mature, but injury always has a way of rearing its ugly head and decimating such clubs.

Running the only wishbone in the conference, UCLA cannot be taken lightly. But Pepper already has the feeling his Bruins are being over-looked.

"I think we'll be a better football team than . . . Well, I was going to say that we've been given credit for, but we haven't been given credit for anything."

Two of Rodgers prize pupils were partially slowed Friday. Left half-back James McAllister was bothered by a jammed left wrist encased in a plastic cast and safety James Bright by a bad shoulder.

Naturally many questions directed at Pepper concerned the faded McAllister. To sum it all up, Rodgers related a personal story.

His nine-year-old son, Kelly, came up to him after a recent scrimmage.

A few more Mark Harmon and UCLA might surprise the nation. But there appear to be too many new faces on either side of the line.

Split end Terry Vernoy, right tackle Bruce Walton and center Randy Gaschler were starters for the 1971 season-ending tie with USC — though Gaschler is now at center and Vernoy has been supplanted at the moment by Brad Lyman, a 1970 starter out all last year with a shoulder injury.

Quarterback: Perfect for wishbone.

Receivers: Will never be fully utilized.

Offense: Must rate solid plus if line holds up.

Defense: Very suspect, key to success in 1972.

Skywriters like Trojans' chances

USC defeated Washington by a scant five points Friday for the Pacific-8 Conference football championship.

At least that's what the 12th annual Skywriters' poll disclosed.

The Trojans were tabbed on 15 first-place ballots while the Huskies received the nod from 14 writers. UCLA's Bruins were a surprising fourth in the poll and gained the darkhorse role over California.

In balloting for the outstanding players, Stanford's John Winesberry won the offensive back award with Trojan Charles Young gaining the vote for linemen. Each was voted the outstanding sophomore preceding his soph season. That vote this year went to Cal quarterback Steve Bartkowski.

On the defensive side Cal's Clarence Duren edged Washington's Bill Cahill by two votes among backs while Oregon State's Steve Brown was a clear-cut winner among linemen. The largest margin of victory went to USC's Richard Wood by 13 points in the soph defender category.

It was the eighth successive year the scribes have tabbed the Trojans for the title. They've correctly predicted the eventual champion only five times.

Will Deacon be grapplin' with ghosts?

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO — Here comes the Deacon.

David Jones, the man who brought glamour to the defensive line, has been hurt and bitter since the Rams traded him to the Chargers seven months ago, and tonight he gets his chance to hurt back.

However, it appears that Deacon's vendetta will be partially frustrated in that he will be grappling largely with ghosts. The Rams, sporting a 1-3 pre-season record, again will not be at their best.

The entire backfield may not play — not to avoid Deacon's wrath but because of injuries. Quarterback Roman Gabriel has a deep bruise on one knee and running backs Willie Ellison and Larry Smith have the limps.

In addition, Jones will be head-on not with regular tight end Bob Klein, but with Klein's understudy, Pat Curran.

So in trying to relive his days of glory past, Jones will have to take out his hurt on people like Pete Beathard, Jim Bertelsen and Larry McCutcheon, who did not join the Rams until after the Deacon had departed.

Outwardly, the injuries cause Ram coach Tommy Prothro more concern than Jones' verbal venom over the last few months. League play starts in two weeks. The Rams' first two games are against relatively easy foes — New Orleans and Chicago — but Prothro is anxious to get it all together.

There's a possibility that Deacon may be upstaged by President Nixon, who returned from the Japanese summit talks in Hawaii Friday night. Charger officials have already set aside a block of tickets for the White House press corps.

The Chargers are riding higher than expected with three wins and a loss only to Minnesota, but new coach Harland Svare — facing the Rams for the first time since they fired him seven years ago — is starting to run into problems.

Two of his 18 trades have gone sour. He sent wide receiver Billy Parks and running back Mike Montgomery to Dallas, but Duane Thomas failed to report from the Cowboys.

He gave the Philadelphia Eagles a No. 1 draft choice for middle linebacker Tim Rossovich, who is out for the season.

Also injured for tonight's game are starting outside linebacker Bob Bahich and reserve linebacker Pete Barnes.

Pete Lazorchik, leader of Stanford's "Thunder Chickens" defensive line the last two seasons, replaced Rossovich last week and went all the way against New Orleans with only four days' practice.

But all others take second billing tonight starting at 8 o'clock. This game belongs to the Deacon. Las Vegas rates him even money with the Rams.

Landry sparks Detroit

TD passes defeat Colts

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Detroit quarterback Greg Landry hurled touchdown passes of nine and 43 yards Friday night to lead the Lions to a 24-17 victory over the Baltimore Colts in a National Football League exhibition game.

Detroit's scoring was aided by three key interceptions.

The first was in the second period when Detroit cornerback Dick LeBeau snared a pass from Colts quarterback John Unfas as it bounced off the hands of John Mackey at the Baltimore 36.

Two plays later, Landry connected on a nine-yard strike to Charlie Sanders, who scampered into the end zone with the first Lions score. The All-Pro tight end was sidelined with a shoulder injury moments later.

The Colts scored first on an 18-yard field goal by Jim O'Brien in the first quarter.

Then Baltimore's rushing attack picked up steam as running back Norm Bledsoe carried 17 yards for a touchdown following a 33-yard dash by Tom Matie. This capped an 83-yard drive and put the Colts ahead 10-7.

Lion cornerback Lem Barney picked off a Unifas pass at the Colt 43 to set up Detroit's second touchdown. Landry hit wide receiver Al Barnes on the next play for the score.

After a scoreless third quarter, Detroit, added to its lead on a 35-yard field goal by Errol Mann.

In the final period, linebacker Mike Lucet intercepted a pass by Marty Domres, Baltimore's backup quarterback, and set up the third Lions touchdown, which came on a one-yard sneak by Bill Munson, the Lions' No. 2 signal caller.

Baltimore's final score came on a 37-yard pass from Domres to wide receiver Cotton Speyrer.

Detroit 24, Baltimore 17.

Ball—FG 38 O'Brien, Del-Sanders 9 pass from Landry (Mann kick).
Bal—Bledsoe 17 run (O'Brien kick).
Det — Barnes 43 pass from Landry (Mann kick).
Det—FG 35 Mann, Del-Sanders 20 pass (Mann kick).
Bal — Speyrer 37 pass from Domres (O'Brien kick).

Rams put Kermit on injured list

Defensive back Kernell Alexander was placed on the injured waiver list by the Rams Friday to bring the club to the 49-player National Football League limit.

Alexander suffered a fractured elbow two weeks ago and will be lost to the club for another month.

Cincinnati coach Paul Brown says he has been "getting a lot of heat" for placing claims on tackle Bob McKay of the Cleveland Browns and defensive end Bubba Smith of the Baltimore Colts.

The action by Brown forced the Browns and Colts to take McKay and Smith off the injured waiver list and keep them on the active roster even though they can't play.

"It's within the rules," said Brown. "It's just a matter of trying to help out my team."

"They might not like me for doing it," said Brown. "But the truth of the matter is, we've done the same kind of thing with other teams."

"Wouldn't you claim Smith if you had a chance?" Brown asked. "We'd be willing to wait till next year if we had to. We'd be willing to pay his salary and bring him back next season."

115 golfers open fire today in L.B. event

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

When Dave Graska captured the first Long Beach Medal Play Golf Championship last year, shooting a sparkling 8-under-par 208 to win by six strokes, he claimed that success was owed to hard work—namely, practice every day.

Graska has turned professional, but at least six golfers who also enjoy the luxury of every-day golf will be among 115 players seeking to win the second 54-hole event that begins today at El Dorado.

The second round will be played Sunday at Recreation Park, the third Monday at Skylinks. The order was reversed a few days ago because Skylinks is in better condition to decide a championship tournament.

Leading title contenders are Mike Krantz, Beau Baugh, Jeff Newell, Fred Good, Alton Duhon, Mike Nichols, Larry Benson, Fritz Heath and the father-son team of John and Kemp Richardson.

Krantz, Baugh, Newell, Good and juniors Chuck Wallace and Jack Hinton, who just won the State Junior championship, are every-day players. Benson, Nichols and Duhon get in their ticks almost every day.

The slender Krantz, No. 1 man at Long Beach State University, probably should rate as the favorite based on his strong play in winning the men's Long Beach City title earlier this summer. He may be the longest hitter in the field.

Baugh is the brother of Laura Baugh and he was an outstanding junior college player in Florida. He came to Long Beach for a visit and has decided to remain and enroll at Long Beach State University.

Kemp Richardson, the Long Beach stockbroker who reached the quarterfinals of the British Amateur, finished second in the 1971 Medal Play tournament and always seems to be in contention no matter how little he practices.

Heath finished third last year, Paul Wise of Los Angeles and Nichols tied for fourth, and Good, J. Richardson and Mike Bellmar were fifth. Wise and Bellmar also are entered this year.

Leading Orange Countians in a tournament which draws 80 per cent Long Beach golfers are Ernie Nuge, Fred Smeltzer, Greg Tasto and Marshall Hanson.

SEEDED PLAYERS HAVE TROUBLE

Smith, Mrs. Court advance

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — Defending champion Stan Smith of Pasadena, and Australia's Mrs. Margaret Court scored easy victories in the stadium, but full blown upsets blossomed on the outlying courts Friday in the third day of play at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Smith, the towering blond who reigns as Wimbledon king, stormed past erratic Clark Graebner of New York-ranked third in the United States but unseeded in this elite event — 6-1, 6-4, 6-7, 6-0 in the men's second round.

The lanky Mrs. Court, on comeback after a year's absence, followed Smith on the manicured grass of the stadium at the West Side Tennis Club and methodically crushed Janice Metcalf of Claremont, Calif., 6-2, 6-1.

In one of the major upsets, Kasuko Sawamatsu of Japan, ranked No. 1 in her country and a former Wimbledon junior champion, surprised Mrs. Nancy Richey Gunter, of San Angelo, Tex., who had complained earlier that her No. 6 seed was much too low.

The 21-year-old Miss Sawamatsu won that first-round match 6-4, 4-6, 6-3 but smilingly admitted, "I didn't think I could beat Nancy until I scored the final point."

In another big upset, Alex Mayer of Wayne, N.J., dropped the first two sets, then came back to oust eighth-seeded Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia 6-7, 3-6, 7-6, 6-3, 6-1.

In still another major upset, Wimbledon doubles champions Bob Hewitt and Frew McMillan of South Africa, the No. 2 seeds here, were beaten in straight sets by Australians John Cooper and Colin Dibley 6-4, 7-5, 6-4 in the first round.

Yancey matches pro best 63 for one-stroke lead

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. — Bert Yancey, winner of the American Golf Classic earlier this year, matched his career best in professional golf competition by sinking five consecutive birdies and firing a 63 to take the first round lead at the $125,000 Greater Hartford Open Friday.

Tied one stroke behind Yancey were British Open winner Lee Trevino and Lee Elder, who won the $22,000 second prize at the USI Classic at Sutton, Mass., two weeks ago.

Yancey's eight under par 63 was three strokes off the course record set by Tommy Bolt in the 1954 GHO.

Yancey birdied the 12th through 16th holes, had a par three on the 17th and birdied the 18th. His only previous victory of the year was the American Golf Classic.

Trevino said the key to his round—the best he's scored this year — was a hot putter. He hit every green in regulation and dropped seven putts for birdies, including two of about 20 feet.

"I haven't been able to sleep nights I've been putting so bad," said Trevino who now is trying a new putter.

Elder sliced his drive into the rough on the 15th and then used a sand edge to push the ball eight feet from the pin where he sunk his first putt to salvage a par.

He called his 64 "the worst round I've played all year," adding, "I haven't hit the ball as solid as I did today." He said he putted well at Sutton but wasn't hitting as well.

Bob Goalby started with a sizzle: birdie, birdie and a hole in one to put him four under after three holes, but he could manage only even-par golf to finish four under.

Tied at 65 were Joe Carr, Larry Wood and Curtis Sifford. Tied at 66 were Bob Barbarossa, Tom Ulas, Deane Beman and Dave Stockton.

Some of the better-known names in golf, including Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and Gary Player, were sitting out the GHO.

Giles retains National Amateur golf lead by 1

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Vinny Giles frittered away most of a five-stroke lead on the back nine Friday to finish with 72, one over par but retained a one-shot lead after three rounds of the National Amateur Golf tournament.

The 29-year-old Richmond, Va., investment banker, carries an even par total of 213 on rounds of 73-68-72 into today's final round. He has a one-shot lead over a new challenger, Army Spec. 4 Mark Hayes of Oklahoma City, who is stationed at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

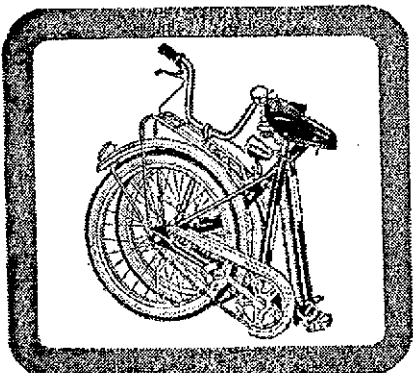

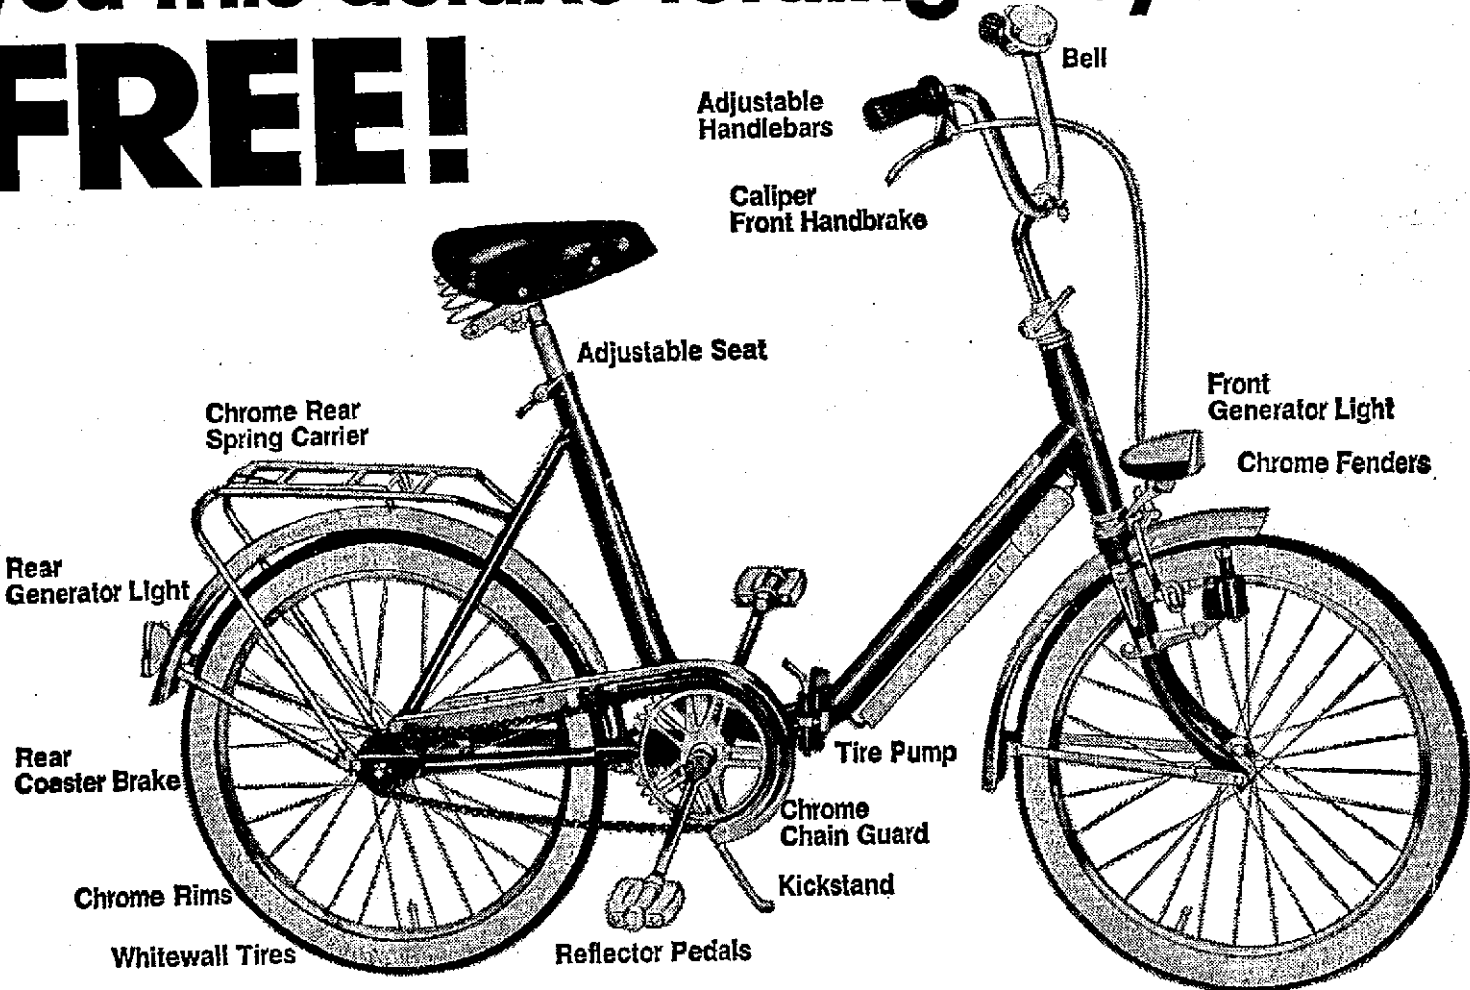

The 23-year-old Hayes shot a 69 to go with earlier rounds of 73-72 and moved into second place at 214. He was one stroke ahead of the 36-hole runner-up, Bruce Robertson of San Mateo, who was done in by a pair of double bogeys and shot a 73.

A four-way tie for fourth place at 217, four shots back of Giles, was headed by pretournament favorite Ben Crenshaw. The University of Texas junior from Austin, Tex., after his third successive two over-par 38 on the front nine of the 6,811-yard Charlotte Country Club course, battled back into contention with a back-nine 33.

He was tied with Doug Ballenger of Ruxton, Md., and the University of Houston; Marty West of Washington, D.C. and Bob Bryant of Charlotte. Ballenger and West shot third-round 73s and Bryant carded a 74.

Giles, three times a runner-up in the tournament, was out in 34 and birdied the 10th for a five-stroke lead over Robertson, who was playing with him and in second place.

Q-horse champion decided tonight

Richest field ever to start in a quarter horse race is the attraction tonight at Los Alamitos when reigning world quarter horse running champion Charger Bar, two-time (111-1) Kaweah Bar and a strong candidate for honors this year, Mr. Jet Moore, face seven other strong contenders.

At stake is the purse every owner wants to win, the $100,000 Los Alamitos Championship, an invitational affair at 440 yards.

In two seasons of racing, the field for the feature has accounted for earnings of $1,065,260.

Tops in both earnings and wins is Mr. Jet Moore, who has won $287,004 in 25 races. Already this year he has won three derbies, plus the Go Man Go and Vandy's Flash, added-money events at the Orange County track.

A win tonight would virtually assure the 3-year-old son of Jet Deck-Dyna Van the '72 world title.

Defending champion of both the race and the '71 world crown, Charger Bar, is very much alert to the challenge.

Charger Bar has been favored in each of her last 11 starts, but her training was interrupted by a quarter crack suffered coming out of the gate in her run-rup to Mr. Jet Moore in the Go Man Go.

Pre-race talk has made only passing reference on Kaweah Bar, who won the championship in '70.

But the distance, the fact that trainer Larry Kleve has been able to bring him into the race with an uninterrupted schedule in the last month and the presence of five-time riding champion Robert Adair may make Kaweah Bar tough to handle.

Del Mar set for holiday

Society headlines today's feature

DEL MAR — Society 2nd, rejuvenated at the age of seven, will carry top weight of 120 pounds today when Del Mar presents the $26,950 Escondido Handicap.

The mile and one eighth event highlights the start of Labor Day week-end at the seaside course where the feature on the Monday holiday program will be the $75,000 Del Mar Debutante matching unbeaten Windy's Daughter and Bold Liz.

Heading the opposition for the Irish-bred Society in the Escondido will be Burt Bacharach's Argentine import, Mirivam, Eastern stakes winner Mongo's Pride, and Vegas Vic. New Pro Escar, Tetrack, Brush Dawn and Wharf complete the field. If all eight go postward the winner will earn $15,550.

Leading rider Don Pierce has the mount on Society 2nd who began his American campaign three years ago and included among his best efforts a runner up finish to Petrone in the Sunset Handicap at Hollywood Park.

He managed to win only one of 21 starts in 1971, but his 1972 record now stands at three-for-eight and his victories include decisions over such good performers as Kentuckian, Figonero and Indulto. Society was third in his last start, finishing a length behind Mirivam while carrying 122 pounds to 114 for the Argentine.

Bill Shoemaker will climb aboard Mirivam who was making his second start in this country when he beat Easter Hero and Society. His impressive effort prompted racing secretary Peter Tunney to give him a 117-pound assignment for the Escondido.

Odds-on favorite Brave Dance held on desperately in the final strides to stave off the onrushing Groshak to win the inaugural running of the $21,825 Balboa Stakes for two-year-olds Friday before 10,164 fans.

Brave Dance, sent postward at 3-5 after winning his previous start by 4 lengths, opened a clear advantage after taking the lead in the stretch, but then was forced to go all out under strong urging by jockey Fernando Toro to shade the fast-closing Groshak and Bill Shoemaker by a head. The winner paid $3.40.

Old people dumped off at hospital

MIAMI — Rejected by relatives and nursing homes, 11 frail and elderly people live in wheelchairs and stretchers in a Miami hospital's emergency room. Many were dumped on the hospital's doorstep with "Do not return" tags pinned to their clothing.

"The number we have here varies from day to day, but the problem is always the same," Louis DiDomenico, administrator of the Jackson Memorial Hospital emergency room, said Friday. "They're too sick to live alone but not sick enough to be admitted to the hospital."

"And it's nearly always a case of money. Either the relatives can't afford to keep them any more or the nursing homes won't take them because Dade County doesn't pay enough. And if a nursing home does take them, it will dump them out the minute they're no longer profitable," he said.

DiDomenico says the problem is rooted in the difference between the amount of aid paid by the state and county to nursing homes for the care of indigent patients.

"NURSING homes get $11.50 a day for patients referred to them by the state. They only get $10 a day for patients referred by Dade County. The county as of today raised their rate to $11.50, but now we find out the nursing homes also get an additional $1.65 a day per patient from other state sources," he said.

DiDomenico said the emergency room has been home to as many as 40 "boarders" at a time. The public hospital is using its county funds to pay for the care.

Some are dumped at the hospital by relatives who speed away in their autos without talking to hospital personnel, he said, while others are dropped off by nursing homes with the "Do not return" tags pinned to them. Some, found dazed and helpless on a city street, are brought in by police or concerned citizens who don't know what else to do with them.

Most are old, ill, helpless and broke. They need supervision and someone to make sure they take medications and get decent meals, but they don't require hospitalization.
